Presenters: DELL's CEO, Michael Dell, presented at the Communacopia + Technology Conference.

Bottom Line: DELL believes the market is in the early stages of a durable, multi-year AI infrastructure buildout, with demand broadening beyond neoclouds into enterprise and sovereign AI, while replacement cycles across PCs and traditional servers provide an additional layer of durability. The company is uniquely positioned to capture that demand through its scale, supplier relationships, and end-to-end portfolio spanning endpoints, compute, storage, networking, services, and financing. Management views execution and margin expansion as key differentiators for DELL that are not fully reflected in the current debate around AI infrastructure demand.

Key Takeaways

AI adoption curve is still looks early. DELL framed AI as a multi-year infrastructure S-curve, with enterprises only beginning to move beyond productivity tools (where organizations may see 10-20% improvements), toward rearchitecting end-to-end workflows. Dell's 6,500 AI Factory customers include a growing number of enterprise deployments, which reinforce management's view that adoption remains in the early stages. Regarding neoclouds, Dell looks through the neoclouds to the underlying end customers, and management said it is only interested in serving neocloud customers that are backed by contracts from hyperscalers and frontier model providers such as OpenAI, Anthropic, Microsoft, Google and Meta. The company views itself as well positioned to continue addressing neocloud demand because of their ability to deliver clusters faster and accelerate time-to-first-token, which creates meaningful economic value for customers.

Enterprise and sovereign AI are becoming increasingly important demand vectors.

While neocloud remains strong, Dell highlighted accelerating adoption among enterprise customers and sovereign AI projects globally. Management noted many regions are 12-18 months behind the U.S., but indicated the long-term sovereign opportunity is sizable and could represent ~1/2 of the opportunities outside of the U.S.

Demand remains durable and, if anything, deferred. Dell pointed to roughly 400 million PCs over four years old and 1.3 million servers running on 13G or older platforms as evidence of significant replacement demand still ahead. The company continues to see tight component availability, potentially worse in 2027 than 2026, while emphasizing that its direct customer relationships provide strong demand visibility with no signs of meaningful double-ordering or underutilization.

Scale and portfolio breadth are increasingly differentiating DELL from its competitors.

Management highlighted advantages from supplier relationships, supply chain execution, and a portfolio spanning PCs, servers, storage, networking, services, and financing. Storage was a particular focus, with Dell arguing AI is creating a virtuous cycle where more intelligence generates more data, driving both storage demand and customer efforts to reorganize and architect data for AI workloads.

Operating leverage is underappreciated, per management. Dell reduced OpEx to roughly 8% of sales through a multi-year AI-driven modernization effort that decoupled revenue growth from cost growth. Management argued investors remain focused on AI infrastructure demand but may be underestimating the earnings power created by Dell's operating leverage and execution advantages.

Valuation/Risks

Valuation. We are Buy-rated on DELL with a 12-month target price of $570 based on 18x our NTM+1Y EPS.

Key risks: (-) Weaker than expected consumer and commercial PC market demand; (-) Worse-than-expected enterprise IT spending; (-) headwinds from hybrid work could result in reduced spending in enterprise IT; (-) Macroeconomic weakness could result in lowered consumer demand; (-) Pricing pressure could occur as competitors discount due to excess channel inventory and reduced demand, particularly in PCs; (-) Margin pressure from higher input costs; (-) Competition from white box manufacturers could occur, particularly in servers and storage; (-) Structurally lower AI server demand from neocloud cohort.

GS Factor Profile

The Goldman Sachs Factor Profile provides investment context for a stock by comparing key attributes to the market (i.e. our universe of rated stocks) and its sector peers. The four key attributes depicted are: Growth, Financial Returns, Multiple (e.g. valuation) and Integrated (a composite of Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple). Growth, Financial Returns and Multiple are calculated by using normalized ranks for specific metrics for each stock. The normalized ranks for the metrics are then averaged and converted into percentiles for the relevant attribute. The precise calculation of each metric may vary depending on the fiscal year, industry and region, but the standard approach is as follows:

Growth is based on a stock's forward-looking sales growth, EBITDA growth and EPS growth (for financial stocks, only EPS and sales growth), with a higher percentile indicating a higher growth company. Financial Returns is based on a stock's forward-looking ROE, ROCE and CROCI (for financial stocks, only ROE), with a higher percentile indicating a company with higher financial returns. Multiple is based on a stock's forward-looking P/E, P/B, price/dividend (P/D), EV/EBITDA, EV/FCF and EV/Debt Adjusted Cash Flow (DACF) (for financial stocks, only P/E, P/B and P/D), with a higher percentile indicating a stock trading at a higher multiple. The Integrated percentile is calculated as the average of the Growth percentile, Financial Returns percentile and (100% - Multiple percentile).

Financial Returns and Multiple use the Goldman Sachs analyst forecasts at the fiscal year-end at least three quarters in the future. Growth uses inputs for the fiscal year at least seven quarters in the future compared with the year at least three quarters in the future (on a per-share basis for all metrics).

M&A Rank

Across our global coverage, we examine stocks using an M&A framework, considering both qualitative factors and quantitative factors (which may vary across sectors and regions) to incorporate the potential that certain companies could be acquired. We then assign a M&A rank as a means of scoring companies under our rated coverage from 1 to 3, with 1 representing high (30%-50%) probability of the company becoming an acquisition target, 2 representing medium (15%-30%) probability and 3 representing low (0%-15%) probability. For companies ranked 1 or 2, in line with our standard departmental guidelines we incorporate an M&A component into our target price. M&A rank of 3 is considered immaterial and therefore does not factor into our price target, and may or may not be discussed in research.

Ratings, coverage universe and related definitions

Buy (B), Neutral (N), Sell (S) Analysts recommend stocks as Buys or Sells for inclusion on various regional Investment Lists. Being assigned a Buy or Sell on an Investment List is determined by a stock's total return potential relative to its coverage universe. Any stock not assigned as a Buy or a Sell on an Investment List with an active rating (i.e., a stock that is not Rating Suspended, Not Rated, Early-Stage Biotech, Coverage Suspended or Not Covered), is deemed Neutral. Each region manages Regional Conviction Lists, which are selected from Buy rated stocks on the respective region's Investment Lists and represent investment recommendations focused on the size of the total return potential and/or the likelihood of the realization of the return across their respective areas of coverage. The addition or removal of stocks from such Conviction Lists are managed by the Investment Review Committee or other designated committee in each respective region and do not represent a change in the analysts' investment rating for such stocks.

Total return potential represents the upside or downside differential between the current share price and the price target, including all paid or anticipated dividends, expected during the time horizon associated with the price target. Price targets are required for all covered stocks. The total return potential, price target and associated time horizon are stated in each report adding or reiterating an Investment List membership.

Coverage Universe: A list of all stocks in each coverage universe is available by primary analyst, stock and coverage universe at <https://www.gs.com/research/hedge.html>.

Not Rated (NR). The investment rating, target price and earnings estimates (where relevant) are removed pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when Goldman Sachs is acting in an advisory capacity in a merger or in a strategic transaction involving this company, when there are legal, regulatory or policy constraints due to Goldman Sachs' involvement in a transaction, and in certain other circumstances. Early-Stage Biotech (ES). An investment rating and a target price are not assigned pursuant to Goldman Sachs policy when this company has neither a drug, treatment or medical device that has passed a Phase II clinical trial nor a license to distribute a post-Phase II drug, treatment or medical device. Rating Suspended (RS). Goldman Sachs Research has suspended the investment rating and price target for this stock, because there is not a sufficient fundamental basis for determining an investment rating or target price. The previous investment rating and target price, if any, are no longer in effect for this stock and should not be relied upon. Coverage Suspended (CS). Goldman Sachs has suspended coverage of this company. Not Covered (NC). Goldman Sachs does not cover this company.
