Raise PT 30% to NT$390; Maintain Buy

NYP's share price has risen 30% since late September, yet CCL margin expansion is unfolding faster than expected. We raise our 2026/27E EPS 17%/31% to NT$16/26, driven by stronger CCL profitability following 3Q26 beat, higher Nanya Technology earnings following 26Q3 upward revision (29% owned) and improved refining profits at Formosa Petrochemical (23% owned). Our forecasts are 8%/13% above VA consensus. We continue to expect a 70%+ payout ratio, supported by operating cash flow, investment dividends, NYPCB stake monetisation and a dividend-supportive shareholder base. Our 26/27E DPS forecasts of NT$12/20 are 58%/48% above consensus, implying dividend yields of 3.9%/6.4%. We believe the market has yet to fully reflect the earnings upside from Electronic Materials (EM) and the sustainability of shareholder returns.

Stronger operating leverage drives EM earnings upgrades

We raise our 4Q26E/2027E EM OPM assumptions 9/11ppt to 33%/36%. The upgrade is mainly driven by higher CCL profitability, with 4Q26E/2027E CCL OPM forecasts raised to 39%/44% (vs 25%/30% previously). Based on 3Q26 results, we estimate a 70% incremental margin, implying every US$1.0 increase in CCL ASP generates cUS$0.7 additional OP. Our forecast of US$8.5/piece ASP increase in 4Q26E should drive cUS $5.9/piece of incremental OP and support CCL OPM of 39%. For 2027E, we assume a lower 60% incremental OPM due to AI ramp-up costs, but still expect unit OP to reach cUS$24/piece and CCL OPM to expand to 44%.

Maintaining a 70%+ payout ratio through cash generation and stake disposals

NYP has maintained a 73-88% payout ratio over 2016-23 and distributed over 100% of earnings in 2024-25. We forecast a 75% payout ratio in both 2026E and 2027E, implying DPS of NT$12/20, 58%/48% above consensus. Our dividend assumption is supported by strong CCL cash generation, recurring investment dividends, and NYPCB stake-disposal proceeds. We also believe NYP's shareholder base structurally favours stable cash returns, given significant ownership by Formosa Group-affiliated non-profit healthcare and educational institutions.

Valuation: Raise PT 30% to NT$390; maintain Buy

We raise our SOTP-derived PT 30% to NT$390 (from NT$300), driven by higher EM earnings and increased values of key listed holdings. We continue to value NYPCB at UBS PT of NT$1,150, non-PCB EM at 19x 2027E EV/EBITDA and petchem at 10x EV/EBITDA. Our PT incorporates a 53% increase in non-PCB EM EBITDA forecasts, updated values for listed investments and an unchanged 10% HoldCo discount. Our PT of NT $390 implies 15x 2027E PE (unchanged), 5.1x P/B (vs. previously 4.4x). Our 26/27E dividend yields are 3.9%/6.4% at the current share price. Maintain Buy.

PIVOTAL QUESTIONS

Q: Can CCL OPM exceed 40% in 2027?
Yes. CCL OPM exceeded 30% following 26Q3 beat , implying c70% incremental OPM. Assuming 4Q26E ASP rises 26% QoQ, we forecast CCL OPM to reach 39% in 4Q26E. For 2027E, an 85% YoY increase in CCL ASP and a 60% incremental OPM would lead to 44% CCL OPM.

Q: Can company maintain 70% dividend payout ratio
Yes. We believe NYP can sustain a 70%+ payout ratio given both the capacity and incentive to do so. Operating cash flow, investment dividends and NYPCB disposal proceeds provide ample funding, while major shareholders including Chang Gung Medical Foundation and Chang Gung University favour stable cash distributions.

UBSVIEW

NYP's share price has risen 30% since late September, yet our original investment thesis is finding support faster than anticipated. We raise our 2026/27E EPS by 17%/31% on stronger CCL profitability, higher contributions from Nanya Technology and improved refining profits. We also see increasing confidence in a sustainable 70%+ payout ratio, supported by operating cash flow, investment dividends, asset monetisation and shareholders' base. We believe the market has yet to fully reflect the earnings upside from Electronic Materials and the durability of shareholder returns.

EVIDENCE

1) 3Q26 CCL OPM exceeded 30%, implying c70% incremental OPM. 2) Vertical integration across CCL, resin, glass fabric and copper foil should support further operating leverage.3) NYP maintained a 73-88% payout ratio during 2016-23 and paid out over 100% in 2024-25. 4) NYP has already monetized ~6% NYPCB stake, generating cNT$30bn of cash proceeds. 5) Shareholder base (CGMF and Chang Gung University) favors stable cash distributions.

WHAT´S PRICED IN?

NYP trades at 12x 2027E P/E and 4.0x 2027E P/BV on our estimates, versus 30x P/E and 6.9x P/BV for EM peers. Our 2026E/2027E DPS forecasts are 58%/48% above consensus. We believe the market has yet to fully reflect the earnings upside from stronger-than-expected CCL profitability and the sustainability of NYP's 70%+ shareholder payout.

COMPANY DESCRIPTION

Nan Ya Plastics one of the core companies of Taiwan's Formosa Group. Its businesses span electronic materials, chemicals, plastics processing and polyester. NYP is one of the largest CCL producers, with a vertically integrated CCL value chain, supplying CCL to its 61%-owned subsidiary Nan Ya PCB and other printed circuit board (PCB) makers. It owns 29% of Nan Ya Tech, the only Taiwan-based dynamic random access memory (DRAM) brand. It also owns 23% of Formosa Petrochemical.

We estimate 4Q26/2027E EM OPM at 33/36% and CCL OPM at 39/44%

We now expect CCL OPM to reach 39% in 4Q26E and 44% in 2027E (vs. previous forecasts of 25% and 30%). Following 26Q3 beat , where CCL OPM exceeded 30%, we believe the current upcycle is exhibiting significantly stronger operating leverage. Based on 3Q26 performance, we estimate incremental OPM of c70%, implying that every US $1.00 increase in CCL ASP translates into cUS$0.70 of additional operating profit. Applying this assumption to our 4Q26E ASP forecast of +26% QoQ (or cUS$8.5 per piece), we estimate operating profit per piece to increase by ~US$5.9, driving CCL OPM to 39%. For 2027E, we continue to expect CCL ASPs to increase a further 85% YoY. While we now assume incremental OPM at 60% on higher AI-CCL ramping up cost thus expect 2027E CCL OPM reaching 44%.

We estimate dividend payout ratio at 75% for 26/27E

We expect NYP to maintain its historical dividend payout ratio of c75%. We believe dividend payments should be well supported by operating cash flow, recurring dividend income from its listed investments, and cash proceeds from the monetization of shareholdings, including the recent disposal of NYPCB shares. In addition, NYP retains flexibility to unlock further value through the announced sale of a portion of its NYT stake, if needed.

NYP maintained a remarkably consistent payout ratio of 73-88% during 2016-23, while distribution exceeded 100% of earnings in both 2024/25, demonstrating its commitment to shareholder returns even during earnings downturns.

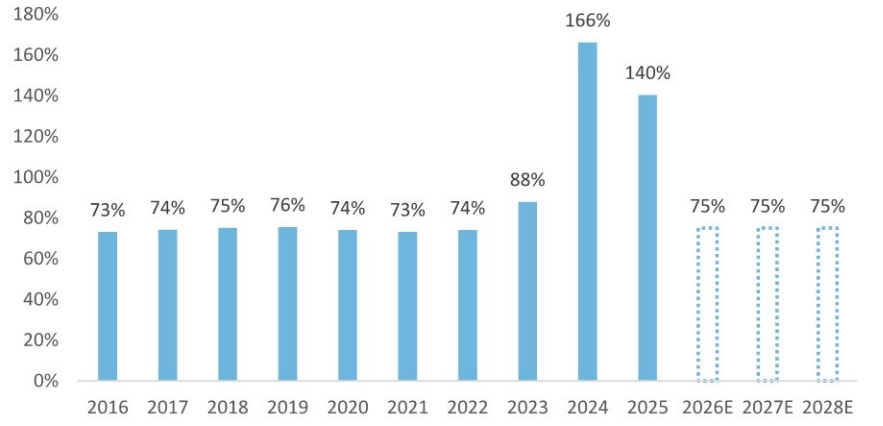

Understanding NYP's largest shareholder

Notably, NYP's largest shareholder is Chang Gung Medical Foundation (CGMF 11.05%), followed by FPC (9.9%), while Chang Gung University holds another 4.00%.

CGMF was founded by Wang Yung-ching and Wang Yung-tsai, the founders of Formosa Plastics Group, with its first hospital opening in 1976. It is a private, nonprofit medical foundation operating one of Taiwan's largest healthcare networks, comprising 10 hospital branches and approximately 11,360 beds, equivalent to around 8% of Taiwan's total hospital bed capacity. The group employs approximately 4,500 physicians, representing around 8% of Taiwan's physician workforce, and provides healthcare services across northern, central and southern Taiwan. CGMF operates two of Taiwan's 23 top-tier medical centers - Linkou Chang Gung Memorial Hospital and Kaohsiung Chang Gung Memorial Hospital—which ranked No. 4 and No. 5 in Taiwan, respectively, in Newsweek World's Best Hospitals 2026 rankings.

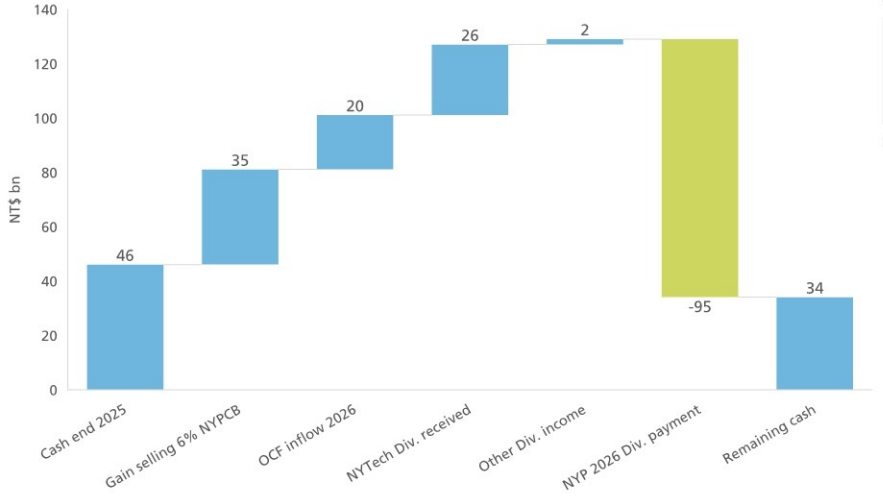

Within Formosa Plastics Group, CGMF also holds 18.58% of FCFC (Formosa Chemicals & Fibre 1326 TT), 9.44% of FPC (Formosa Plastics 1301 TT), and 5.79% of FPCC (Formosa Petrochemical 6505 TT), based on shareholder disclosures as of March 2026.

Comparison with consensus: Our 2026E/27 net profit forecasts are 7.9%/13% above consensus. This is driven by both EBIT estimates and Investment income mainly from Nanya Technology (NYT, 2408.TW, Buy, covered by UBS analyst Nicolas Gaudois), in which the company holds a 29% stake. Our 26/27E EBIT forecasts are 12%/14% above consensus, reflecting our expectation that CCL OPM will increase from ~30% in 26Q3 to 39% in 4Q26E and 44% in 2027E. This expansion should be supported by higher ASP and stronger-than-expected operating leverage, as demonstrated by 26Q3 CCL OPM, highlighting the company's cost-control capabilities across its vertically integrated supply chain.

Our 26/27E investment income are 13/20% above Visible Alpha consensus, following UBS tech team's upward revision to Nanya Tech's EPS forecasts on the back of stronger-than-expected DRAM pricing, sustained supply-demand tightness and strong 26Q3 result.

Comparison with historical valuation: The stock is currently trading at 17x P/E based on 12-month forward consensus estimates, below its five-year historical average PE of 19x. Looking at P/BV, NYP trades at 5.3x P/BV on 12-month forward consensus estimates, supported by a 28% 12-month forward ROE. Both P/BV and ROE are at five-year historical highs.

NYP's implied core business now accounts for 51% of market capitalisation, vs a historical average of 25%. While we think the market has increasingly recognised the value of its core operations, we see improving visibility on shareholder returns, supported by a dividend payout ratio of over 70% backed by operating earnings , investment gains and asset disposals.

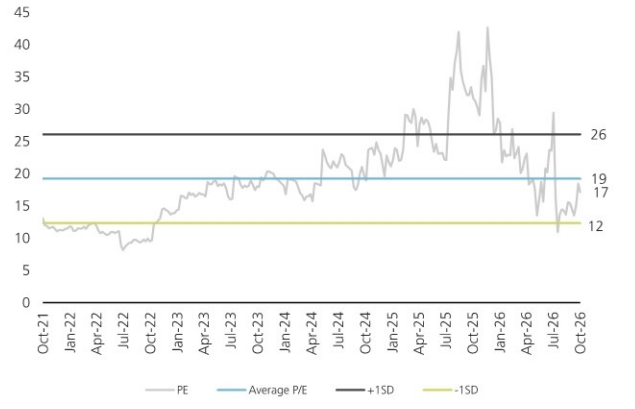

Comparison with sector peers: NYP trades at 12x 2027E PE and 4.0 2027E P/BV on our estimates, compared to 30x 2027E PE and 6.9x P/BV for its EM peers. We believe the market undervalues the company's expanding CCL business due to excessive concerns about the legacy petchem business that could weigh on margins. We expect continued geopolitical volatility to support MEG-ethylene spreads and to preserve petchem profitability from 2026 to H127E.

Changes of estimates

We raise our 2026E/2027E EPS by 17%/31% to NT$16/26, mainly driven by: 1) a more constructive view on CCL profitability following the company's 26Q3 beat and our sensitivity analysis on higher operating leverage thus higher OPM assumption; and 2) higher investment income from Nanya Technology (NYT) after the UBS Tech team's 2027E/2028E EPS upgrades and revision of FPCC net income on expanding refining margin.

We raise 2028E EPS by 3%. While we lower 2028E revenue by 10% and EBIT by 13% to reflect a more conservative CCL pricing outlook, incorporating gradually easing supply tightness and industry normalization in 2028E (see UBS Tech team recent CCL deep dive), the higher investment income, primarily from NYT, partially offsets the impact.

SOTP Valuation

We raise our PT by 30% to NT$390 from NT$300, primarily driven by higher earnings assumptions for the electronic materials business and an increase in the market value of key listed holdings, particularly FPCC, FPC and FCFC. We value Nan Ya Plastics using an SOTP valuation methodology.

Core business: For the company's PCB business, we continue to use the UBS price target of NT$1,150. For non-PCB EM, we raise our EBITDA forecasts by 53% to reflect higher CCL OPM assumptions, while maintaining our 19x 2027E EV/EBITDA multiple. We leave our chemicals, plastics and polyester valuation unchanged at 10x 2027E EV/EBITDA, in line with Asia petchem peers.

Investments: For the company's investments in FPCC, FPC, FCFC, NYT, Mai Liao Power and others, we use updated market values and UBS price target where applicable.

HoldCo discount: We maintain our 10% HoldCo discount assumption unchanged, reflecting the transparent market value of NYP's holdings, visible dividend policies and demonstrated ability to monetize investments.

Our SOTP-derived PT of NT$390 implies 15x 2027E PE, 5.1x P/BV. Our 2026E/2027E dividend yields are 3.9%/6.4% at the current share price. Maintain Buy.

Company Description

Established in 1958 and listed on the TAIEX in 1967, Nan Ya Plastics one of the core companies of Taiwan's Formosa Group. Its businesses span electronic materials, chemicals, plastics processing and polyester. NYP is one of the largest copper clad laminates (CCL) producers, with a vertically integrated CCL value chain, supplying CCL to its 61%-owned subsidiary Nan Ya PCB and other printed circuit board (PCB) makers. It owns 29% of Nan Ya Tech, the only Taiwan-based dynamic random access memory (DRAM) brand. It also owns 23% of Formosa Petrochemical.

Valuation Method and Risk Statement

Nan Ya Plastics:
We base our price target for NYP on a SOTP valuation.
Key upside risks include: 1) stronger CCL pricing; 2) faster high-end CCL mix upgrades; and 3) a faster petchem margin recovery.
Key downside risks are: 1) a CCL pricing reversal on faster supply additions or weaker demand; 2) slower AI qualification/ramp of the company's CCL business; and 3) further weakening chemicals/polyester businesses.
Nan Ya Printed Circuit Board:
Our price target for Nan Ya Printed Circuit Board is based on P/E multiple methodology.
Upside risks include faster-than-expected ramp-up of networking/switches, stronger-than-expected pricing increase, better-than-estimated consumer demand, and continued tightness in BT substrates.
Downside risks include lower-than-expected ramp-up of networking/switch projects, lower-than-expected global PC/server demand, oversupply from capacity expansions, raw material cost increases, intensified competition, and a lack of spec upgrades and content increase.
As for industry risks, substrate applications are dominated by PCs, but servers, artificial intelligence and advanced computing are driving demand growth. We believe key risks to the industry include slower-than-expected growth in servers, networking, and high performance computing, ASP pressure, margin erosion, and lack of spec upgrades. We believe the flexible circuit board and high-density interconnect board segments are more vulnerable to fluctuations in the consumer product cycle and have lower visibility.
Nanya Technology:
Nanya Tech is a pure-play DRAM manufacturer based in Taiwan mainly focused on legacy DDR products for customers across various end applications. We think downside risks to our thesis could include a potential slowdown in end demand and hence the conventional memory cycle as well as Nanya's legacy-centric product portfolio. We value Nanya Tech shares using a target NTM P/BV multiple based on long-term average ROE and cost of equity.

This document is a general communication and is educational in nature; it is not an advertisement nor is it a solicitation or an offer to buy or sell any financial instruments or to participate in any particular trading strategy. Nothing in this document constitutes a representation that any investment strategy or recommendation is suitable or appropriate to an investor's individual circumstances or otherwise constitutes a personal recommendation. By providing this document, none of UBS or its representatives has any responsibility or authority to provide or have provided investment advice in a fiduciary capacity or otherwise. Investments involve risks, and investors should exercise prudence and their own judgment in making their investment decisions. None of UBS or its representatives is suggesting that the recipient or any other person take a specific course of action or any action at all. The recipient should carefully read this document in its entirety and not draw inferences or conclusions from the rating alone. The financial instruments described in the document may not be eligible for sale in all jurisdictions or to certain categories of investors.

Options, structured derivative products and futures (including OTC derivatives) are not suitable for all investors. Trading in these instruments is considered risky and may be appropriate only for sophisticated investors. Prior to buying or selling an option, and for the complete risks relating to options, you must receive a copy of "The Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options." You may read the document at https://www.theocc.com/publications/risks/riskchap1.jsp or ask your salesperson for a copy. Various theoretical explanations of the risks associated with these instruments have been published. Supporting documentation for any claims, comparisons, recommendations, statistics or other technical data will be supplied upon request. Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future results. Transaction costs may be significant in option strategies calling for multiple purchases and sales of options, such as spreads and straddles. Because of the importance of tax considerations to many options transactions, the investor considering options should consult with his/her tax advisor as to how taxes affect the outcome of contemplated options transactions.

Mortgage and asset-backed securities may involve a high degree of risk and may be highly volatile in response to fluctuations in interest rates or other market conditions. Foreign currency rates of exchange may adversely affect the value, price or income of any security or related instrument referred to in the document. For investment advice, trade execution or other enquiries, clients should contact their local sales representative.

For financial instruments admitted to trading on a non-EU regulated market: UBS may act as a market maker save that where this activity is carried out in the US in accordance with the definition given to it by the relevant laws and regulations, such activity will be specifically disclosed in this document. Options and futures are not suitable for all investors, and trading in these instruments is considered risky and may be appropriate only for sophisticated investors. Prior to buying or selling an option, and for the complete risks relating to options, you must receive a copy of "Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options". Investing in structured investments involves significant risks. For a detailed discussion of the risks involved in investing in any particular structured investment, you must read the relevant offering materials for that investment. Structured investments are unsecured obligations of a particular issuer with returns linked to the performance of an underlying asset. Depending on the terms of the investment, investors could lose all or a substantial portion of their investment based on the performance of the underlying asset. Investors could also lose their entire investment if the issuer becomes insolvent. UBS does not guarantee in any way the obligations or the financial condition of any issuer or the accuracy of any financial information provided by any issuer. Structured investments are not traditional investments and investing in a structured investment is not equivalent to investing directly in the underlying asset. Structured investments may have limited or no liquidity, and investors should be prepared to hold their investment to maturity. The return of structured investments may be limited by a maximum gain, participation rate or other feature. Structured investments may include call features and, if a structured investment is called early, investors would not earn any further return and may not be able to reinvest in similar investments with similar terms. Structured investments include costs and fees which are generally embedded in the price of the investment. The tax treatment of a structured investment may be complex and may differ from a direct investment in the underlying asset. UBS and its employees do not provide tax advice. Investors should consult their own tax advisor about their own tax situation before investing in any securities.

Important Information About Sustainable Investing Strategies: Sustainable investing strategies aim to consider and incorporate environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors into investment process and portfolio construction. Strategies across geographies approach ESG analysis and incorporate the findings in a variety of ways. Incorporating ESG factors or sustainable investing considerations may inhibit the portfolio manager's ability to participate in certain investment opportunities that otherwise would be consistent with its investment objective and other principal investment strategies. The returns on a portfolio incorporating ESG factors or sustainable investing considerations may be lower or higher than portfolios where ESG factors, exclusions, or other sustainability issues are not considered by the portfolio manager, and the investment opportunities available to such portfolios may differ.
