Tweaking Estimates to Reflect 3Q Mix, FY Estimates and Price Target Unchanged

We are updating our model to reflect expected revenue mix in 3Q. We believe the company is tracking towards 3Q guidance; however, we are updating our segment level expectations. Within the Pipeline segment, we believe mix of short-haul vs long-haul project activity could weigh on segment level margin, despite in-line revenue, though view this as simply a timing issue and therefore leave our FY26 estimates largely unchanged. We expect the strength in Power Delivery to offset the Pipeline mix headwind in 3Q and therefore leave our estimates largely aligned with consolidated company guidance. Our YE27 price target remains $369. Maintain Overweight.

- Maintain Overweight. Our Dec 2027 price target remains $369, based on an assigned multiple of 24x our FY28E PF EPS. The assigned multiple represents a ~25% discount to PWR's current trading multiple (NTM consensus EPS). We see potential for the multiple gap to PWR to narrow as MTZ continues to execute, proves no further deterioration in the comms segment, and adds incremental data center and pipeline projects to backlog.

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

MTZ is a top-tier infrastructure specialty contractor with well-diversified segments targeting the clean energy, communications, power delivery, and oil & gas industries. Consolidated, we believe MTZ is the clear #2 diversified specialty contractor in the US. We believe MTZ offers investors a growing, profitable, and reasonably priced play on the energy transition.

Valuation

Maintain Overweight. Our Dec 2027 price target remains $369, based on an assigned multiple of 24x our FY28E PF EPS. The assigned multiple represents a ~25% discount to PWR's current trading multiple (NTM consensus EPS). We see potential for the multiple gap to PWR to narrow as MTZ continues to execute, proves no further deterioration in the comms segment, and adds incremental data center and pipeline projects to backlog.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

We could become less constructive on MTZ for any of the following reasons:

Further challenges with acquisition integration. Recent M&A integration has weighed on MTZ's profitability. While we believe much of the issues are behind MTZ, the company could be adversely impacted if acquisitions do not perform as currently expected.

Large project risk. MTZ is increasing its mix of large-scale projects. A single project going wrong at a larger scale could have a greater impact on consolidated company results.

Policy. MTZ's business is exposed to a breadth of policy decisions, including clean energy (IRA), natural gas, and telecommunications (BEAD and other policies). Policy changes could adversely impact certain segments of MTZ's business.

Increasing competition. If MTZ's competitors, predominately PWR, aggressively pursue MTZ's core markets, MTZ could lose share in the market or have to compete on price.

Loss of a material customer. MTZ's forecast revenue growth in the Communications segment is materially tied to its expanded relationship with AT&T. Should the AT&T relationship change/deteriorate, there could be risk to growth/profitability.

Inflation risks. Higher inflation rates could weigh on the profitability of MTZ's contracts. In particular, fixed price contracts, which carry greater exposure to commodity pricing and are typically larger in nature, could be most affected.

Interest rate hikes. MTZ holds variable rate debt. Higher interest rates would likely lead to higher interest expense, which could weigh on cash generation.

Severe weather. Severe weather could delay or prevent the completion of MTZ's project work, inducing volatility in quarterly revenues.

Labor shortages. While MTZ feels well positioned today, labor shortages remain a concern across the specialty contracting industry. Shortages of craft and skilled workers could lead to project delays, scaling back, and/or cancellations.

Explanation of Equity Research Ratings, Designations and Analyst(s) Coverage Universe:

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe). NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
