Q3 sales top consensus following a strong September

We summarize September monthly sales across 176 Taiwan tech firms and 59 companies under our coverage against both UBS and market expectations. September sales for UBS tech coverage was up 8% MoM/+53% YoY, below the +21% 5Y seasonal MoM due to a higher base in August. Hardware outpaced semis in September on a MoM basis with sales +11% MoM/+52% YoY vs. semis flat MoM/+53% YoY growth, while Q3 sales both grew similarly strong for hardware and semis +20%/+19% QoQ. Among our covered companies, 35 were ahead of consensus, 4 in line, and 20 behind, while the overall coverage tracked ahead of UBSe/Street at 105%/106%.

Hardware sales ahead from server strength, NB double-digit decline maintained

The UBS Taiwan hardware coverage was well ahead of Q3 expectations, growing 19% QoQ vs. +13% QoQ UBSe/Street and 105% of street. September was slightly sub-seasonal +11% MoM/+52% YoY due to a high August base to still keep the full quarter ahead. ODM momentum remains strong although sales are growing lumpier as high value AI servers rise as a percent of their mix and can swing MoM pending data center readiness and availability for the full kit of components to deliver the server. Sep NBs were broadly in line at 9.7mn to take 3Q -17% QoQ/-26% YoY to 25.2mn. We revise Q426 from flat to -2% QoQ (-24% YoY), still netting to full year notebooks -15% YoY at 109.3mn vs. UBS global PCs -11% YoY with Taiwan NB gated by component supply constraints, cost inflation and a bit of share loss to China. Components were mixed with power slightly light as expected on supply constraints while Genius outperformed Largan on share gains into periscope lens now in its 3rd year of production.

Semiconductors led by back-end/equipment, GPU test ramp not as steep in Q4

The UBS Taiwan semis coverage saw September sales up flattish MoM/+53% YoY. Q3 tracked ahead with +20% QoQ to surpass +17%/+16% QoQ of UBSe/Street booking 102%/104%. All sectors tracked well ahead except wafers: foundry was flattish in September but still +62% YoY for +20% QoQ in Q3. Memory remains robust with Nanya Tech +576% YoY. Back-end sales had a strong month above seasonal (+6% MoM/+42% YoY) for Q3 +24% QoQ above UBSe/Street +19%. Testing equipment remains the strongest in Q3 and tracked 111% of estimates for +26% QoQ vs. 13% expected with Chroma booking an impressive 125%/123% of UBSe/Street. Fabless booked 104% of Q3 led by Mediatek despite a seasonal MoM decline. GUC, Faraday and Silergy stood out while consumer fabless (Elan, ASMedia and Parade) missed. For KYEC covered by Sunny Lin, Q3 sales were in line +9% QoQ but we trim Q4 (Figure 37) from 18% QoQ to 9% QoQ growth with lower Nvidia's Rubin unit estimate in 2026 at 1.6-1.8mn vs. prior 2.1m and 2027 retained at 5.8m.

Outlook: new product ramps driving the next leg up from late 2026 into 2027

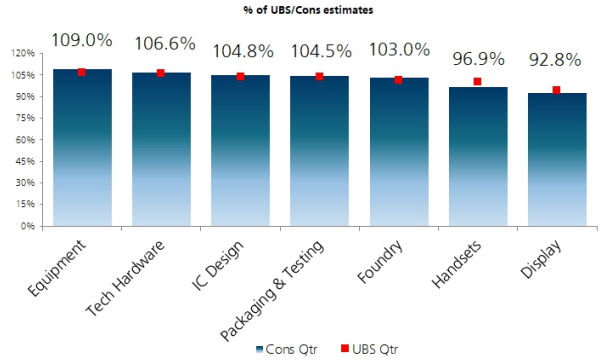

The supply chain is entering a platform transition in Q426 with racks starting to ramp later in the quarter. We maintain modest units of Rubin (5k of 80k racks this year) and back-end loaded to Nov-Dec for initial shipments with some HBM constraints. We also see initial volume of Trainium 3 liquid-cooled racks and TPU v8, while AMD Helios MI455 racks ship from late December. Next catalysts include the Q326 results season, hyperscale guidance (Figure 20) and Hon Hai Tech Day (10/30-10/31) focusing on AI/ robotics. For stocks, we prefer semis and components with tight supply, spec upgrades and rising pricing/margins, supporting foundry (TSMC), back-end (ASE, All Ring, Chroma, Hon Precision) and fabless/design service (Mediatek and GUC). Within hardware our picks remain Delta, Wiwynn, Wistron, Hon Hai, Accton and Unimicron.

Taiwan Tech Sept Sales: Q3 strong; in transition to year-end new platforms

We summarize September monthly sales across 176 Taiwan tech firms and 59 companies under our coverage against both UBS and market expectations. September sales for UBS tech coverage was up 8% MoM/+53% YoY, below the +21% 5Y seasonal MoM due to a higher base in August. Among our covered companies, 35 were ahead of consensus, 4 in line, and 20 behind, while the overall coverage tracked ahead of UBSe/Street at 105%/106%. We still view AI and general server demand as robust, with the key focus in H226 more about managing supply bottlenecks from component tightness and stretching lead times.

Overall Taiwan tech sales in September increased +55% YoY sustaining the strong growth trajectory and surpassing expectations across most sectors, while Q3 grew +17% QoQ/+60% YoY stronger than seasonality of +11% QoQ. Hardware companies are entering peak season for the smartphone build but also boosted by continued strong AI server demand for Blackwell. Trainium 3 began ramping in August and saw a much stronger ramp in September. General server demand also remained resilient through September, coming in better than expected though with memory still gating shipments.

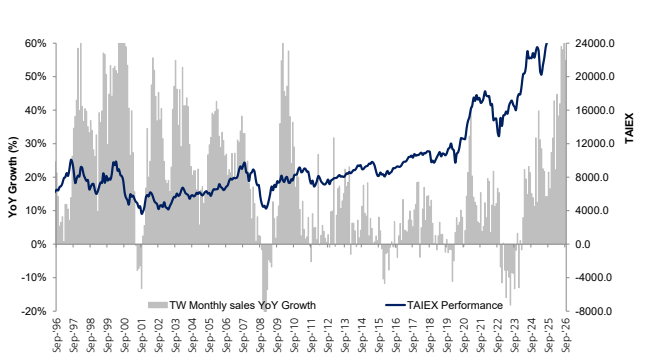

The supply chain is entering a platform transition period in Q426 with chip production shifting on current platforms and racks starting to ramp later in the quarter. We maintain modest units of Rubin (5k of 80k racks this year) and back-end loaded to Nov-Dec for initial shipments with some HBM constraints. We also see initial volume of Trainium 3 liquid-cooled racks and TPU v8, while AMD Helios MI455 racks ship from late December.

Source: Company data, SIA, UBS

Source: Company data, SIA, UBS

Sentiment in Taiwan pulsing the direct supply chain momentum has outpaced global sentiment on the AI cycle over the past few months. The TAIEX is now setting record highs and a few percent above the previous June highs while the SOX is still 15% below its June peak. In the month, the SOX narrowed the gap somewhat appreciating by 10% vs. a 4% appreciation for the TAIEX.

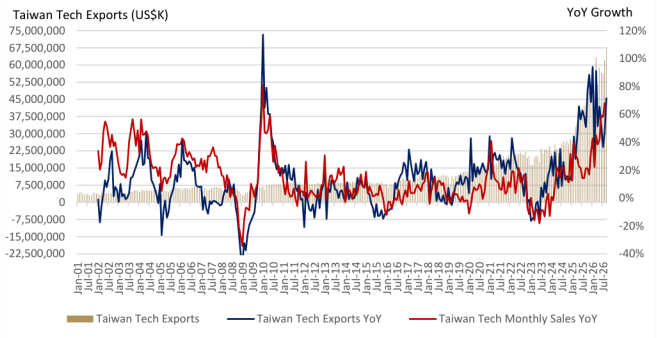

We stay constructive amid diverging sentiment, with more global fund managers raising questions on capex and funding outpacing cash flow growth amid rising rates and AI safety concerns (see Figure 21). The supply chain narrative should keep positive and could offer some catalysts through results. We expect hyperscalers to focus on better compute pricing and backlog amid tight supply and while directionally will express high capex direction for 2027 may save guidance for January. We expect the supply chain to keep on pricing with customers focused on securing supply and giving visibility for multi-year supply requests even if those can later change.

Taiwan tech exports stay strong: +8% MoM/+72% YoY

Taiwan's overall tech exports in September continued to grow both sequentially and yearly with +8% MoM/+72% YoY following August's rebound:

- DRAM up substantially YoY, off slightly in Sep. DRAM exports declined 27% MoM to NT$4.3bn after a record NT$5.9bn in August but still +286% YoY marking its 11th month with >1x YoY growth amidst increasingly higher base.
- IC exports maintain strong YoY growth. IC exports at NT$29.7bn only cooled down slightly with -3% MoM/+46% YoY from its historical peak in August but still surpassed the prior high in July.
- Laptop exports saw quarter-end export growth. Laptop exports rebounded +24% MoM/+7% YoY after a weak August near 1H levels. Despite the rebound, demand sentiment stays cautious with most of export growth from inflationary component cost more than offsetting declining shipments. ODMs still tracked in line to our -17% QoQ expectation coming into the month.
- Smartphone exports had a strong month but also seeing some downward adjustments. Smartphone exports were robust with +40% MoM/+88% YoY growth to support the new iPhone 18 series but we suspect lifted by more exports concentrating in the month to support the launch rather than strong demand. Apple's leading lens supplier Largan already noted a softer fall build and only flat October sales and November down after already tracking below seasonal in Q326.

- Server exports stay strong. Server related exports (Automatic data processing (ADP) ex-laptop) was +26% MoM/+112% YoY, well above flattish seasonality to NT$29.8bn nearing its peak in March, as our feedback from ODMs indicate rack ramps on track as well as good visibility in server board orders. Assuming Aug and Sept together constitute a normal 63.4% of NVIDIA's F3Q (from August to October), the two months' NT$53.4bn in exports would imply approximately NT $84.3bn for the full quarter, or +14% QoQ, below UBSe DC revenue +19% QoQ. ADP exports are somewhat predictive of NVIDIA revenue but there are sometimes variances to what NVIDIA reports as Data Center revenue, as seen in last quarter.

UBS Hardware coverage Q3 led by ODMs over components

The UBS Taiwan hardware coverage was well ahead of Q3 expectations, growing 19% QoQ vs. +13% QoQ UBSe/Street and 105% of street. September was slightly sub-seasonal +11% MoM/+52% YoY due to a high August base to still keep the full quarter ahead. ODM momentum remains strong although sales are growing lumpier as high value AI servers rise as a percent of their mix and can swing MoM pending data center readiness and availability for the full kit of components to deliver the server. Q4 UBS growth expectations (UBSe +13% QoQ/street +7% QoQ) should be achievable as customers support tight compute demand although timing of platform ramps and slightly earlier CNY in early February 2027 could make the quarter back-end loaded.

Figure 9: Hardware September sales +11% MoM/+52% YoY; Q326 sales +19% QoQ tracked 105% of UBSe/ Street forecasting +13% QoQ, with sequential growth still expected in Q4.

Most companies in our hardware coverage tracked ahead. The ODMs reached 106% of consensus estimates, with Compal the only supplier behind due to server delivery and component constraints and share loss in low-end PCs to China competitors. Pegatron stood out this month with upside from both a concentrated delivery of this year's flagship model in September (the largest contributor to MoM growth) followed by strong delivery in the month to NeoCloud clients for NVL72 servers and double-digit growth in its broadband and consumer passing on higher component costs.

For power and thermal players, component constraints capped sales with Delta in line with lowered outlook from our Taiwan Summit and Lite-On near in line rather than ahead as some shipments awaited data center readiness. For the smartphone supply chain, assemblers are seeing flat volumes this year supplemented by higher ASPs passing on component costs while lens is seeing Genius outperform Largan, +10% YTD vs. +2% for Largan. In Q326, Largan tracked only 94% of consensus and indicated downward revisions in customer forecasts for the coming months with sales peaking at lower levels this year and turning down from November. Genius on the other hand booked 104% of expectations and held stable in Q3, outgrowing Largan for most of the past 18 months and reinforcing our view of them gaining share on the periscope lens now in its 3rd year of shipments.

ODM notebook shipments +32% MoM in Sept but Q326 declines 17% QoQ in line with UBSe

September saw an in-line pull-in of notebook shipments at 9.7mn, broadly in line with our 9.6mn to bring the full quarter to 25.2mn (-17% QoQ/-26% YoY). We revise Q426 from flat to -2% QoQ (-24% YoY) to lower our full year ODM shipment forecasts by 400k to 109.3mn, still down -15% YoY below UBS global PCs -11% YoY with NB demand still gated by component supply constraints and cost inflation.

We highlight the following notebook ODM Q326 shipment trends:

- Quanta NB shipments see a strong end-of-quarter pull-in. September shipments were 4.2mn (+62% MoM/-9% YoY) ahead of UBSe 3.6mn rebounding from August lows with quarter-end inventory adjustments and pull-ins for 9.6mn (-17% QoQ/-24% YoY) in Q3. As management raised 2026 guidance from >20% decline to teens, we revise up Q4 shipments from 8.5mn to 9mn units (-6% QoQ/-17% YoY), bringing full-year 2026 forecasts to 40.1mn units (-14% YoY).
- Compal NBs below for Q3. September shipments were 1.7mn units (+21% MoM/-32% YoY), below UBSe prior 2mn due to muted demand and share loss in low-end consumer models to China peers, with Q3 totalling to 4.9mn. We revise down Q4 units to 5.7mn (+10% QoQ/-21% YoY) from 5.4mn and expect Compal missing its full-year guidance of mid-teens decline and estimate -20% YoY to 22.4mn units down from 23mn UBSe prior.
- Pegatron still weak in September and Q3. September shipments were 460k units (+8% MoM/-44% YoY) below UBSe prior of 600k to book 1.3mn (-27% QoQ/-46% YoY) in Q3. We lower our full-year forecasts from 6.7mn to 6.6mn (-27% YoY), implying Q4 shipments of 1.75mn (+36% QoQ/-27% YoY).
- Inventec shipments in line with 3Q guidance down high single digits. September shipments came in ahead at 1.8mn (+20% MoM/-5% YoY) vs. UBSe prior of 1.7mn bringing Q3 to 4.9mn (-9% QoQ, YoY), in line with its original guidance. Management guided for a similar high-single-digit decline in Q4. We now expect the company to ship 4.5mn in Q4 (-8% QoQ/-15% YoY) vs. 4.4mn previously, and full-year shipments to 20.2mn (-5% YoY).
- Wistron notebook shipments light. September shipments were 1.5mn units (+7% MoM/-32% YoY), below UBSe prior 1.65mn units with Q3 totalling to 4.5mn vs. our prior 4.65mn. We slightly trim our 2026 full-year shipments to decline 16% YoY at 20.2mn from 21.0mn (-13% YoY), implying 4.05mn NBs to be shipped in Q4 (-10% QoQ/-41% YoY) with the company not seeing signs of supply improvement into year-end. We also note some higher-end Dell systems now built by Chinese suppliers which is impacting the TAM at this customer for the Taiwan suppliers.

Back-end sales had an above-seasonal September (+6% MoM/+42% YoY) for Q3 +24% QoQ above UBSe/Street +19%. Testing equipment supported by robust back-end sales tracked 111% of estimates for a +26% QoQ vs. 13% expected, with Chroma leading the strength with an impressive 125%/123% of UBSe/Street. For KYEC, Q3 sales grew 9% QoQ, in line with UBSe. We lower Q4 sales to 9% QoQ growth from 18% previously, mainly to reflect slower ramp of new AI accelerator products in the near term. We lower NVIDIA's Rubin unit estimate in 2026 from 2.1m to 1.6-1.8m, and retain estimate of 5.8m for 2027. See our earnings revision and updated quarterly estimates in Figure 37 and Figure 38. Maintain Buy on expanding test TAM across probing & final test, with higher target of NT$370 from NT$325 as we roll over to 22x 2027-28E PE from 2027E.

Fabless ended Q3 with a 104% outperformance led by Mediatek 107% of UBSe/Street despite a seasonal MoM decline in September, while consumer fabless (Elan, ASMedia and Parade) missed as PC OEMs cut back orders in response to the demand impact from rising component costs and prioritized supply to high end models.

Downstream in line with upstream

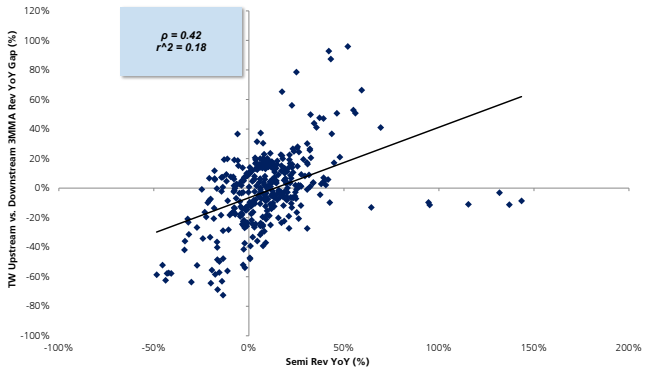

We track 3MMA YoY for Taiwan upstream vs. downstream tech and find a 0.42 correlation with semis revenue YoY. In September, upstream and downstream were in line at +62% 3MMA YoY. Overall, hardware and semis have been broadly aligned.

Sector trends: Sept sub-seasonal but Q3 above

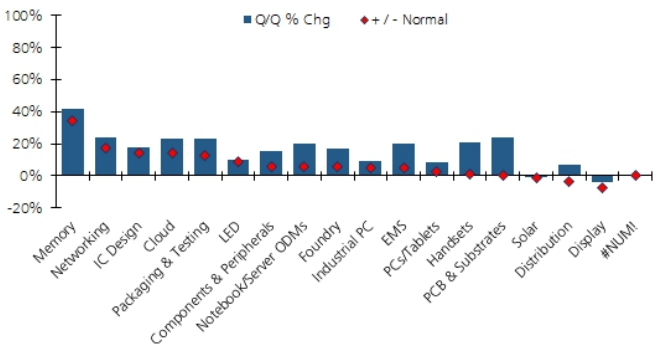

Looking beyond the UBS coverage to the broader set of Taiwan companies and subsectors, tech sales were +10% MoM in September though lagging seasonality of +18% MoM due to a strongly above seasonal August. The majority of subsectors beat seasonal trends, with cloud, distribution, PCB/substrates and backend/testing equipment the most notable. Q3 boosted by August outperformance was still above seasonal QoQ of 11% at +17%, with memory, networking, IC design, cloud, packaging & testing and equipment all booking more than double-digit growth vs. seasonal.

September/Q3 Sales: Beats/Misses vs. consensus

Top beats in the coverage spanned across both hardware and semis companies, including Pegatron (reversing Jul/Aug misses for a huge beat in Q3 driven by Neocloud servers and new flagship ramps), Chroma (robust demand from power & semi testing), GUC (Google CPU strength and turnkey sales), Wiwynn (stronger-than-expected general servers and Amazon Trainium 3 ramping well), and Faraday. Those tracking behind include Chenbro (rack business impacted by vessel shipment logistics delays and sales recognition timing), Parade (softer NB demand), AUO (softer NB demand and panel pricing), Globalwafers, and Largan (likely losing lens share to Genius).

Outlook: new product ramps driving the next leg up from late 2026 into 2027

The market has been monitoring growing corporate AI budgets (link) and rising use of open source models (link) although cloud growth and hyperscale capex remains strong with our tracker now updated to Top 11 hyperscalers (see Figure 20) after UBS's initiation of coverage on CoreWeave and SpaceX (xAI). We still see strength in supply chain builds evidenced by continued memory price upgrades (link), stronger CoWoS builds (link), and ODM hardware upside seen through monthly sales for Wiwynn, Wistron, Hon Hai, and Pegatron. Key risk amid the strong spending is increasingly from supply related factors including component bottlenecks and construction/permitting delays at the data center sites or capital market increases in borrowing costs.

We reiterate key hardware takeaways: 1) AI GPU racks: GB300 demand holding through year-end and lifting NVL72 racks toward 80k with Vera Rubin initial shipments in mid-Q4 and sharper through 2027 in line with UBS 90k while AMD Helios board shipments on track in Q426 with small volume racks from Q127; 2) ASIC racks: Trainium 3 ramping up with liquid-cooled version from year-end toward 30-40% of this cycle volume, while TPU ramping well from Q4, Jalapeno components from Q426 and MTIA more meaningful H227; 3) General server ramps: Volumes expected to stay strong in 2027, although some memory constraints impact Q3 and CPU transitions may shift new ramps to Q127; 4) Power supply: Strong power growth outlook from Delta/Lite-On (70%+ YoY in 2026) and supported first by ASIC power racks with NVIDIA timed to Rubin Ultra or at the latest Feynman and rising costs passed on from Q4; 5) PC demand: Weakening after H126 pull-ins on sharply higher BOM costs and expected to stay soft into 2027, with China memory supply supporting availability for some vendors.

Next catalysts include Q326 results season already kicking in, with TSMC reporting on Oct 15 (Thu), hyperscalers later this month, and hardware/ODMs mid-November. Hon Hai Tech Day on 10/30 (Fri)-10/31(Sat) would shift focus from EV in prior years to AI/robotics this year. For stocks, we prefer semis and components with tight supply, spec upgrades and rising pricing/margins, supporting foundry (TSMC), back-end (ASE, All Ring, Chroma, Hon Precision) and fabless/design service (Mediatek, Alchip and GUC). Within hardware our picks remain Delta, Wiwynn, Wistron, Hon Hai, and Unimicron. For KYEC covered by Sunny Lin, we maintain Buy on expanding test TAM, with higher price target of NT$370 from NT$325 as we roll over to 22x 2027-28E PE from 2027E.

Valuation Method and Risk Statement

Investing in the technology sector involves a high degree of risk. Rapid technological changes, increasing competition and exposure to macroeconomic cycles are among the many risks faced by investors in technology stocks. Moreover, it is extremely difficult to project the financial results of tech companies since their operating models are highly volatile and unpredictable. Finally, valuing technology stocks can prove challenging, as neither traditional nor non-traditional valuation measures have provided much insight into how these stocks trade. Valuation methodologies in the sector include target price/book multiples based on the long-term average ROE and the cost of equity.

Investing in structured investments involves significant risks. For a detailed discussion of the risks involved in investing in any particular structured investment, you must read the relevant offering materials for that investment. Structured investments are unsecured obligations of a particular issuer with returns linked to the performance of an underlying asset. Depending on the terms of the investment, investors could lose all or a substantial portion of their investment based on the performance of the underlying asset. Investors could also lose their entire investment if the issuer becomes insolvent. UBS does not guarantee in any way the obligations or the financial condition of any issuer or the accuracy of any financial information provided by any issuer. Structured investments are not traditional investments and investing in a structured investment is not equivalent to investing directly in the underlying asset. Structured investments may have limited or no liquidity, and investors should be prepared to hold their investment to maturity. The return of structured investments may be limited by a maximum gain, participation rate or other feature. Structured investments may include call features and, if a structured investment is called early, investors would not earn any further return and may not be able to reinvest in similar investments with similar terms. Structured investments include costs and fees which are generally embedded in the price of the investment. The tax treatment of a structured investment may be complex and may differ from a direct investment in the underlying asset. UBS and its employees do not provide tax advice. Investors should consult their own tax advisor about their own tax situation before investing in any securities.

Important Information About Sustainable Investing Strategies: Sustainable investing strategies aim to consider and incorporate environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors into investment process and portfolio construction. Strategies across geographies approach ESG analysis and incorporate the findings in a variety of ways. Incorporating ESG factors or sustainable investing considerations may inhibit the portfolio manager's ability to participate in certain investment opportunities that otherwise would be consistent with its investment objective and other principal investment strategies. The returns on a portfolio incorporating ESG factors or sustainable investing considerations may be lower or higher than portfolios where ESG factors, exclusions, or other sustainability issues are not considered by the portfolio manager, and the investment opportunities available to such portfolios may differ.

Within the past 12 months UBS Switzerland AG, its affiliates or subsidiaries may have received or provided investment services and activities or ancillary services as per MiFID II which may have given rise to a payment or promise of a payment in relation to these services from or to this company.
