Communications Infrastructure | North America

2Q26 Institutional 13F Positioning - OW EQIX and OW AMT Under-Owned

The gap between institutional ownership of Communications Infrastructure and the S&P weighting remained under-owned by 11bps in 2Q. OW EQIX and OW AMT are both under-owned by 4bps, while ownership of EW SBAC is in-line with S&P 500 weighting.

Key Takeaways

- Within our coverage, AMT and EQIX are the most under-owned by the top 100 actively managed institutional portfolios, each 4 bps underweight relative to S&P 500.
- Broader Comm Infra group is under-owned by 11bps vs. S&P 500, in-line with 1Q26 weighting.
- Comm Infra coverage portfolio weight fell 5 bps q/q to 0.36%, near the low end of its 2010 - 2026 range. Ownership weights of all five stocks were flat/lower.
- EQIX and DLR represent the largest share of portfolios at 0.13% and 0.08%, respectively; both saw a 1 bps share decrease in 2Q.
- AMT saw the largest q/q decrease in portfolio weight this quarter with (2 bps); active share was unchanged at (4 bps) vs. S&P 500.

Communication Infrastructure stocks are under-owned vs. the S&P 500 exiting 2Q26, in-line with their 1Q26 weighting. Leveraging 13Fs filed for the end of 2Q26, OW EQIX and OW AMT are the most under-owned names vs. the S&P 500 among our coverage group at (0.04%) (Exhibit 1). Both shares have seen a steady increase from a 1Q20 trough, with a more pronounced increase at AMT from a 1Q20 trough of (0.17%) (Exhibit 3 and Exhibit 4). EQIX and DLR represent the largest share of institutional portfolios among the group at 0.13% and 0.08% (Exhibit 2), respectively, reflecting broader market support for data centers vs. towers in recent years. We continue to prefer data center operators over towers given favorable compute supply/demand dynamics and a lack of short-term catalysts for towers.

Communications Infrastructure portfolio weight fell modestly by 5 bps in 2Q26, with AMT, CCI, DLR, EQIX, and SBAC collectively representing 0.36% of the top 100 institutional portfolios on average vs. 0.41% in 1Q26 (Exhibit 2). This is a continuation of the industry's steady decrease from a peak of 0.92% in 1Q20 (Exhibit 5). Active share, the difference in institutional ownership weighting vs. the S&P 500, remained largely flat q/q at (0.11%), up from the trough of (0.39%) in 1Q20 (Exhibit 6).

Why OW EQIX? We reiterate our EQIX Top Pick based on strong network effects in the interconnection business and significant capacity expansion creating an achievable path to ~13% revenue growth by 2029. We recently highlighted the virtual interconnection upside opportunity and raised our bull case estimates here.

Why OW AMT? We see an attractive entry point at OW AMT, where we view the colocation data center asset, CoreSite, as an underappreciated growth story, along with margin expansion enabling MSD% AFFO/share growth. Towers continue to trade near trough multiples due to a lack of near-term catalysts and SpaceX uncertainty overhang. We recently highlighted attractive entry point at AMT and the tower REITs here.

In this report, we summarize our key findings to help investors assess how positioning has shifted over the last quarter. Please note that these holdings reflect positions as of June 30th, and allocations may have changed since reporting. Additionally, the majority of filers are long-only funds, with ~5% of assets represented by hedge funds. 13F data is limited to long equity positions and does not include derivative or short-side exposures. Our analysis focuses on the top 100 funds by AUM. Each company's ownership weighting is based on the average weighting within the top 100 actively managed institutional portfolios relative to that same company's weighting in the S&P 500.

Risk Reward – American Tower Corp. (AMT.N)

Attractive Entry Point Given Accelerating US Leasing Revenue Growth

PRICE TARGET $220.00

Our price target conservatively assumes P/fwd AFFO of ~19x which is below the 10 year sector average of 22x

Consensus Price Target Distribution

Source: Refinitiv, Morgan Stanley Research

OVERWEIGHT THESIS

- AMT offers an attractive risk/reward in the context of the US Tower REITs
- We are bullish on contribution from its Data Center business, fading FX headwinds, and on the assumption the company executes on cost initiatives ahead
- Expect AMT to begin repurchasing shares in 2026, which will amplify AFFO/share growth modestly.

RISK REWARD CHART

Key: — Historical Stock Performance ● Current Stock Price ◆ Price Target

Source: Refinitiv, Morgan Stanley Research

BULL CASE

$255.00

~21x P/fwd AFFO

Heightened growth and margin expansion, in a lower rate environment: Higher organic growth vs. our base case. AMT also announces better than expected cost cutting initiatives related to SG&A, while interest rates lower and FX headwinds subside, providing incremental margin/AFFO vs. our base case. Potential opportunity to monetize on CoreSite asset at an attractive valuation.

BASE CASE

$220.00

~19x P/fwd AFFO

Growing demand for mobile data. Sprint churn rolls off, fading FX headwinds, and a focus on cost cutting. We also expect double digit revenue growth in its Data Center segment over the next few years.

BEAR CASE

$155.00

~14x P/fwd AFFO

Rising rates, FX and slower carrier activity create headwinds. Falling carrier capex drives significantly less tower work, though MLAs provide some downside protection. Historically, interest rates have had some negative correlation vs performance of the tower stocks. If rising rates drive REIT multiples lower, it could pressure the towers. AMT's large emerging market exposure also creates risk in terms of tenant churn.

Risk Reward – Digital Realty Trust Inc. (DLR.N)

Global Scaled Colocation Data Center Operator

PRICE TARGET $215.00

Our valuation assumes shares trade at 22.5x fwd. adj. EBITDA, or 26.2x fwd. AFFO / Share. We assume ~10.4% y/y revenue growth in FY26E, with 55.4% Adj. EBITDA margins and ~7.7% AFFO / share growth.

Consensus Price Target Distribution

Source: Refinitiv, Morgan Stanley Research

EQUAL-WEIGHT THESIS

- Growth in the volume of global data generation, hybrid cloud adoption, and enterprise digital transformation should serve as long-term tailwinds to revenue growth for Digital Realty.
- A large development capacity gives solid line of sight into power needs, enabling future developments to further capture this demand.
- Digital Realty has greater exposure to the wholesale leasing part of the market with longer lease times and lower pricing on a $ / kW basis due to higher customer concentration of tenants with greater bargaining power.
- We believe the market is overly optimistic about AI-fueled growth in the short-term.

BULL CASE

$255.00

24.7x fwd. Adj. EBITDA

Demand for both AI and non-AI workloads in data centers remains high, while power supply remains constrained, leading to higher leasing prices. DLR earns high returns from AI-focused JVs. Assumes 11.9% y/y revenue growth in FY26E, with 55.9% Adj. EBITDA margins and 9.6% AFFO / share growth.

BASE CASE

22.5x fwd. Adj. EBITDA

DLR benefits from industry growth based on data generation volume, enterprise digital transformation, and hybrid cloud adoption. Market remains optimistic on AI-fueled growth, reducing likelihood of outperformance. Assumes 10.4% y/y revenue growth in FY26E, with 55.4% Adj. EBITDA margins and ~7.7% AFFO / share growth. 22.5x EV / fwd. EBITDA and 26.2x fwd. AFFO in-line with historical trading multiples.

BEAR CASE

16.8x fwd. Adj. EBITDA

Macroeconomic softness reduces investments in IT data center spend. Excess supply comes online and pressures pricing power. Larger than expected power density requirements increase obsolescence risk of current data centers. Interest rates remain higher for longer, weighing on data center REIT multiples. Assumes ~9.5% y/y revenue growth in FY26E, with 54.9% Adj. EBITDA margins and ~6.2% AFFO / share growth.

Global Leader in High Connectivity Colocation Data Centers

PRICE TARGET $1,250.00

Our valuation assumes 26x fwd. Adj. EBITDA, or 25x fwd. AFFO / Share. We assume ~11.6% y/y revenue growth in FY26E, with 51% Adj. EBITDA margins and ~12.6% AFFO / share growth.

RISK REWARD CHART AND OPTIONS IMPLIED PROBABILITIES (12M)

Source: Refinitiv, Morgan Stanley Research, Morgan Stanley Institutional Equities Division. View explanation of Options Probabilities methodology here

OVERWEIGHT THESIS

- We see robust tailwinds to the retail colocation market, and see Equinix's increased capital spending positioned to further capture this demand.
- We expect MRR / billable cabinet to continue to grow as cabinet power densities increase across the portfolio of assets.
- We see room for growth on the number of interconnections / billable cabinet, increasing the stickiness of Equinix's ecosystem and driving outsized interconnection revenue growth.
- Despite market caution, we view Equinix's long-term guidance as achievable due to long-term benefits from increased capital spending, and see upside from AI related workloads (primarily inference) that is not priced in.

Enterprises accelerate rollout of generative AI applications and integrations, rapidly increasing the demand for AI inference with low latency requirements. Equinix capitalizes through Tier 1 market locations, best-in-class interconnection network, and modest pricing growth. Assumes ~12% y/y revenue growth in FY26E, with ~52% Adj. EBITDA margins and 14.4% AFFO / share growth.		Equinix's capex plans translate into significant returns, leading to results that exceed long-term management guidance from the 2025 Analyst Day. Interconnect continues to be a sticky product, and the data center industry sees firm pricing. Assumes ~11.6% y/y revenue growth in FY26E, with 51% Adj. EBITDA margins and 12.6% AFFO / share growth. 26.1x EBITDA assumes modest multiple expansion given double digit growth in revenue and shifting market narrative to AI winner.		Macro softness reduces IT infrastructure investment, bringing down data center demand. Equinix sees lower returns on heavy capital investment plan as absorption levels and presales fall short of expectations. Assumes ~10.9% y/y revenue growth in FY26E, with 50.7% Adj. Risk Reward – SBA Communications (SBAC.O)

Highest Exposure to US Tower Growth

PRICE TARGET $215.00

Our price target assumes 16.6x P/ fwd AFFO, below the 10-year average. This multiple reflects both confidence in the long-term tower business model and near-term uncertainty around carrier network investment. We assume -2.6% domestic organic growth and 67.4% adj. EBITDA margins in FY26E.

Consensus Price Target Distribution

Source: Refinitiv, Morgan Stanley Research

EQUAL-WEIGHT THESIS

- We favor the fundamentals of the tower model - long term contracts, operating leverage, rate escalators, low capital expenditures, high margins, strong credit tenants, and high barriers to entry.
- The growing demand for mobile data, carriers competing on network quality, and additional deployments should keep leasing activity elevated.
- SBA Communications maintains target leverage of 6.0x to 7.0x to grow the portfolio

BULL CASE

$260.00

~19x P/ fwd. AFFO

Heightened growth and REIT acceptance.

Higher organic growth vs our base case. The company is also able to source a meaningful amount of accretive deals closer to the high end of targeted 5-10% portfolio growth. The company offers the most upside to estimates due to portfolio growth and smaller portfolio of towers relative to peers.

BASE CASE

$215.00

~17x P/ fwd. AFFO

Growing demand for mobile data.

Organic growth of ~LSD-MSD% domestically and internationally in 27+. Three national carriers are actively investing in their network to compete on network quality, while DISH churns off. SBA Communications continues to grow the tower portfolio and benefits from capital allocation optionality.

BEAR CASE

$160.00

~13x fwd. P/AFFO

Rising rates and consolidation create headwinds.

Lower organic growth vs our base case. Historically, interest rates have had some negative correlation vs performance of the tower stocks. If rising rates drive REIT multiples lower, it could pressure the towers. Meanwhile, 5G investments begin to fade and drive slower organic growth.

Morgan Stanley uses a relative rating system using terms such as Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated or Underweight (see definitions below). Morgan Stanley does not assign ratings of Buy, Hold or Sell to the stocks we cover. Overweight, Equal-weight, Not-Rated and Underweight are not the equivalent of buy, hold and sell. Investors should carefully read the definitions of all ratings used in Morgan Stanley Research. In addition, since Morgan Stanley Research contains more complete information concerning the analyst's views, investors should carefully read Morgan Stanley Research, in its entirety, and not infer the contents from the rating alone. In any case, ratings (or research) should not be used or relied upon as investment advice. An investor's decision to buy or sell a stock should depend on individual circumstances (such as the investor's existing holdings) and other considerations.
