Watching 4Q26 Revenue Ramp

CITI'S TAKE

We expect CTSH to deliver a relatively steady 3Q26, with our 2.5% Y/Y organic cc revenue growth estimate broadly in-line with consensus and implied 1.8%-3.3% guidance, while Project Leap should support adjusted operating margins. We believe the large debate centers on 4Q, where we anticipate management to guide for 5.9%-7.4% Y/Y cc revenue growth (implies 3.9%-5.4% Y/Y organic cc revenue growth vs. our 4.6% assumption). CTSH's confidence in that step-up resides with large deal ramps, additional billable days and potentially lighter furloughs. Financial Services remains the growth engine, while CMT headwinds appear to be stabilizing. Longer-term, growing AI bookings and evolving inference-based pricing provide offsets to productivity deflation, while Vector 2/3 revenue remains more of a 2027/28 opportunity. We expect FY26 guidance to narrow around unchanged discretionary demand assumptions. We remain Neutral on CTSH, but raise our TP to $68 due to higher peer multiples.

- 4Q Recovery Supported by Previously Won Deals, Rather Than Stronger Underlying Demand. CTSH's anticipated 4Q acceleration is the most important debate heading into earnings. We model organic cc revenue growth of 2.5% Y/Y in 3Q and 4.6% Y/Y in 4Q, compared with consensus expectations of 2.6% and 4.3%, respectively. Notably, this acceleration does not require a broad improvement in IT Services spending. CTSH expects additional billable days in 2H26 and, more importantly, large engagements signed in late 2025 and early 2026 to progress beyond transition into revenue generation. CTSH also assumes a lower-than-usual 4Q furlough impact, particularly as Financial Services demand remains healthy.

- We believe this improves visibility into the revenue cadence following July's reduction to the upper end of FY26 guidance. Rather than implying a discretionary recovery. The company is relying on work already won. The implied step-up still needs to be demonstrated, particularly as it relates to existing contract productivity creating revenue offsets to the contribution from new business. We would look for confirmation that project transitions remain on schedule and that smaller, shorter-cycle engagements are at least stable. Delivery against the 4Q outlook could also provide a better starting point for FY27, where we forecast 5.1% organic cc rev growth (vs. consensus at 4.5%).

- Financial Services Lead, While CMT Stabilization Offers Some Relief. We continue to expect meaningful divergence across CTSH's industry portfolio. Financial Services (+11.7% Y/Y cc in 2Q vs. +10.2% Y/Y cc in 1Q) remains the clearest evidence of healthy spending, supporting by banking, insurance and capital markets clients investing in modernization and AI-enabled transformation. The segment's growth is encouraging, although approximately 250 bps of its 2Q reported revenue growth came from third-party product sales, reinforcing the need to separate reported growth from the underlying services picture.

  - Elsewhere, the demand backdrop is less supportive. CMT grew 1.4% Y/Y cc in 2Q despite strong spending among technology customers, as Communications and Media clients remained pressured. CTSH is seeing a specific Communications customer headwind stabilize, which could help reduce the drag on CMT without indicating a broader demand inflection. Health Sciences (+1.0% Y/Y cc) continued to face policy-related uncertainty and tight ROI requirements, while Products and Resources (+0.7% Y/Y cc) remains exposed to geopolitical and supply-chain disruption. We therefore expect Financial Services to carry growth in 3Q, with CMT offering potential stabilization rather than a new acceleration driver.

- AI is Differentiating Deal Wins, but Bookings Conversion Matters More. We think CTSH's AI investments are increasingly supporting commercial differentiation, particularly as customers evaluate providers capable of combining domain knowledge, enterprise context and large-deal execution. The company signed seven deals with TCV of $100M+ in 2Q, including three new logos, while TTM bookings reached $29.1B (+5% Y/Y). Quarterly bookings, however, declined 6% against a difficult comp, and ACV softened as contract duration lengthened. We would therefore watch ACV, new bookings, and activity in smaller deal categories rather than solely rely on headline TCV.

  - An interesting medium-term opportunity is the evolution of AI monetization. Vector 1, which applies AI productivity to existing services, still dominates 2026 revenue. However, CTSH is seeing Vector 2/3 engagements move beyond pilots into larger contracts, typically beginning to convert into revenue within six to eight months. We would expect a more material shift in the revenue mix between vectors in 2027 and 2028. Importantly, CTSH is beginning to incorporate inference into T&M pricing, while fixed-price work can increasingly monetize delivered outcomes instead of just human effort. In our view, this creates a path to capturing some AI productivity economics rather than passing all savings to clients, but new business growth must still outweigh the shrinkage of legacy effort before an AI-driven growth inflection becomes apparent.

- Project Leap Improves the Margin Setup, With Reinvestment Still a Constraint. Project Leap should support earnings despite the limited demand recovery. CTSH is targeting $200M-$300M in annualized savings, with the program expected to provide roughly 10 bps of net FY26 adjusted operating margin benefit after reinvestment. The company incurred $84M of Project Leap charges in 2Q, which are excluded from adj. op. margin. CTSH plans to continue using a large share of savings to fund AI infrastructure, training and new delivery tools, making immediate margin flow-through less likely.

  – We see a more durable opportunity in improved revenue productivity. Headcount declined modestly Q/Q to ~356.7k in 2Q, and management expects staffing to remain range-bound as it hires junior talent while reshaping delivery. More work is moving toward virtual effort and inference, with management viewing approximately 5-8% rev/head growth as a reasonable medium-term benchmark. We model 3Q adj. operating margin of 16.2% and 4Q of 16.6%, versus consensus of 16.2% and 16.4%, respectively. Our FY27 margin estimate of 16.7% also compares to consensus of 16.3%, leaving execution on productivity and reinvestment as important determinants of outyear earning potential.

- CTSH 3Q26 Preview. For 3Q26, we model revenue +4.5% Y/Y cc (+4.1% Y/Y reported), which compares to guidance of +3.8%-5.3% Y/Y. Our forecast assumes approximately 200 bps of inorganic contribution, translating to 2.5% organic cc growth. We expect continued Financial Services strength and easing company-specific CMT pressure to offset a broadly cautious discretionary environment. We estimate adj. operating margin of 16.2%, which is in-line with consensus, and supported by Project Leap and delivery efficiencies. We also forecast $1.47 of adj. EPS, headcount declining ~1% Q/Q to 353.1K (consistent with the workforce reshaping underway). Rev/head and gross margin will be useful measures of whether restructuring is improving the delivery model.

- 4Q26 and FY26 Guidance Expectations. We expect CTSH to introduce 4Q revenue guidance of approximately 5.9%-7.4% Y/Y growth, including 200 bps of inorganic contribution, implying approximately 3.9%-5.4% organic cc growth. The midpoint is broadly consistent with our 4.6% organic CC growth estimate, versus consensus at 4.3%. We believe already-contracted deal ramps, incremental billable days, and more favorable furlough assumptions can support this exit rate without a broad recovery in discretionary spending.

  – For FY26, we expect total cc revenue growth guidance to tighten to 4.25%-5.25% (from 4.0%-5.5%), still including approximately 150 bps of inorganic growth. This implies organic CC growth of 2.75%-3.75% and leave the total cc midpoint unchanged at 4.75%. Importantly, CTSH's existing midpoint assumes stable discretionary spending, while the high end contemplates better short-cycle revenue in 4Q. We view the low end as allowing for weaker spending/slower conversion, although CTSH has not explicitly characterized this scenario. We expect the 16.0%16.2% adj. operating margin range to hold and adj. EPS guidance to narrow around its $5.76 midpoint.

  – Separately, the possible India dual listing remains a potential catalyst, and CTSH expects further clarity on the regulatory environment around year-end, with any decision to proceed subject to the board's assessment of shareholder interests.

Company description

CTSH is a recognized global professional services company, helping clients to modernize technology, redesign processes, and remain competitive in the more general landscape. CTSH reports four business segments: 1) Health Sciences; 2) Financial Services; 3) Products and Resources; and 4) Communications, Media, and Technology.

Investment strategy

We have a Neutral rating on CTSH. We view CTSH as more of a momentum-based narrative at present, specifically with regards to the large deals that the company has won in the last few quarters. We believe that a continuation of large deal wins should provide some degree of offset to the more general macro challenges faced by operators in the IT services space. However, as long as GenAI technology continues to incentivize clients to focus on cost takeout vs. revenue growth opportunities, we think that top-line acceleration for the service providers, CTSH included, should remain somewhat suppressed.

Valuation

We value CTSH on a P/E multiple off our CY 2028 expected earnings. Our target price of $68 implies a 9.7x multiple (from $60 based on 8.6x) and reflects improved IT services peer multiples.

Risks

Risks that could cause the stock to deviate from our target price include: 1) decreased/increased client discretionary spend; 2) bookings growth deceleration/acceleration; 3) talent sourcing conditions in the primary employee market of India (~73% of total in 2025).

Analysts' compensation is determined by Citi Research management and Citigroup's senior management and is based upon activities and services intended to benefit the investor clients of Citigroup Global Markets Inc. and its affiliates (the "Firm"). Compensation is not linked to specific transactions or recommendations. Like all Firm employees, analysts receive compensation that is impacted by overall Firm profitability which includes investment banking, sales and trading, and principal trading revenues. One factor in equity research analyst compensation is arranging corporate access events between institutional clients and the management teams of covered companies. Typically, company management is more likely to participate when the analyst has a positive view of the company.

For financial instruments recommended in the Product in which the Firm is not a market maker, the Firm is a liquidity provider in such financial instruments (and any underlying instruments) and may act as principal in connection with transactions in such instruments. The Firm is a regular issuer of traded financial instruments linked to securities that may have been recommended in the Product. The Firm regularly trades in the securities of the issuer(s) discussed in the Product. The Firm may engage in securities transactions in a manner inconsistent with the Product and, with respect to securities covered by the Product, will buy or sell from customers on a principal basis.

Unless stated otherwise neither the Research Analyst nor any member of their team has viewed the material operations of the Companies for which an investment view has been provided within the past 12 months.

Guide to Citi Research Fundamental Research Investment Ratings:
Citi Research stock recommendations include an investment rating and an optional risk rating to highlight high risk stocks.
Risk rating takes into account both price volatility and fundamental criteria. Stocks will either have no risk rating or a High risk rating assigned.
Investment Ratings: Citi Research investment ratings are Buy, Neutral and Sell. Our ratings are a function of analyst expectations of expected total return ("ETR") and risk. ETR is the sum of the forecast price appreciation (or depreciation) plus the dividend yield for a stock within the next 12 months. The target price is based on a 12 month time horizon. The Investment rating definitions are: Buy (1) ETR of 15% or more or 25% or more for High risk stocks; and Sell (3) for negative ETR. Any covered stock not assigned a Buy or a Sell is a Neutral (2). For stocks rated Neutral (2), if an analyst believes that there are insufficient valuation drivers and/or investment catalysts to derive a positive or negative investment view, they may elect with the approval of Citi Research management not to assign a target price and, thus, not derive an ETR. Citi Research may suspend its rating and target price and assign “Rating Suspended” status for regulatory and/or internal policy reasons. Citi Research may also suspend its rating and target price and assign "Under Review" status for other exceptional circumstances (e.g. lack of information critical to the analyst's thesis, trading suspension) affecting the company and/or trading in the company's securities. In both such situations, the rating and target price will show as “—“ and “-“ respectively in the rating history price chart. Prior to 11 April 2022 Citi Research assigned “Under Review” status to both situations and prior to 11 Nov 2020 only in exceptional circumstances. As soon as practically possible, the analyst will publish a note re-establishing a rating and investment thesis. Investment ratings are determined by the ranges described above at the time of initiation of coverage, a change in investment and/or risk rating, or a change in target price (subject to limited management discretion). At times, the expected total returns may fall outside of these ranges because of market price movements and/or other short-term volatility or trading patterns. Such interim deviations will be permitted but will become subject to review by Research Management. Your decision to buy or sell a security should be based upon your personal investment objectives and should be made only after evaluating the stock's expected performance and risk.

Catalyst Watch/Short Term Views (“STV”) Ratings Disclosure:
Catalyst Watch and STV Upside/Downside calls: Citi Research may also include a Catalyst Watch or STV Upside or Downside call to indicate the analyst expects the share price to rise (fall) in absolute terms over a specified period of 30 or 90 days in reaction to one or more specific near-term catalysts or events impacting the company or the market. A Catalyst Watch will be published when Analyst confidence is high that an impact to share price will occur; it will be a STV when confidence level is moderate. A Catalyst Watch or STV Upside/Downside call will automatically expire at the end of the specified 30/90 day period. The Catalyst Watch will also be automatically removed if share price performance (calculated at market close) exceeds 15% against the direction of the call (unless over-ridden by the analyst). The analyst may also remove a Catalyst Watch or STV call prior to the end of the specified period in a published research note. A Catalyst Watch/STV Upside or Downside call may be different from and does not affect a stock’s fundamental equity rating, which reflects a longer-term total absolute return expectation. For purposes of FINRA ratings-distribution-disclosure rules, a Catalyst Watch/STV Upside call corresponds to a buy recommendation and a Catalyst Watch/STV Downside call corresponds to a sell recommendation. Any stock not assigned to a Catalyst Watch Upside, Catalyst Watch Downside, STV Upside, or STV Downside call is considered Catalyst Watch/STV No View. For purposes of FINRA ratings distribution-disclosure rules, we correspond Catalyst Watch/STV No View to Hold in our ratings distribution table for our Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside rating system. However, we reiterate that we do not consider No View to be a recommendation. For all Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside calls, risk exists that the catalyst(s) and associated share-price movement will not materialize as expected.
