Preview – Investor Focus on AI Financing & Rubin Ramp

CITI'S TAKE

Nvidia reports Jul-Q earnings on 8/26. We raise our Jul/Oct-Q sales ~$1B/$1.5B above Street based on revised industry transceiver shipments and expect the stock to trade higher post earnings. We believe Nvidia has secured HBM memory supply for 2026/27 which should help Street estimates to move higher. Beyond memory, we believe Nvidia is focused on the next resource bottleneck of LPS (land, power, and shell) to help expand AI factories. We lift F27/28/29 EPS 1%/2%/2% on higher sales and maintain Buy and $300 TP based on 24x P/E times revised C27 EPS vs prior 28x to reflect lower market multiples.

Jul-Q results and Oct-Q guidance — We model $1B upside in the Jul-Q with sales of $93B vs. Street's $92B on a continued strong B300 ramp. Going into Oct-Q, we expect a 13% QoQ sales uptick to $105B (Street $103.7B). We expect a continued strong ramp of B300 as well as the initial ramp of Vera Rubin as foreshadowed by the faster-than-expected ramp of 1.6T transceivers ramp. We model data center sales in Jul/Oct to grow sequentially +15%/+14% QoQ vs. Street +13%/+13%.

AI Financing - Why is the risk smaller than it looks? — Nvidia formally finalized the Ohio PORTS-Pike campus by providing credit support on land, power, and shell buildout for an initial 4.25 IT-GW phase, with an option (not an obligation) to extend to the remaining 3.75 IT-GW, totaling 8 IT-GW under a 20-year lease. By leveraging its industry-leading scale and balance sheet strength, Nvidia is further expanding its footprint in the AI infrastructure space. We see these efforts as a way for Nvidia to facilitate AI factory growth by easing in the short to midterm financing needs of the AI labs and neoclouds.

Blackwell/Rubin Ramp — We revise our GPU units' estimates to reflect Citi's latest CoWos estimates. We expect Blackwell in FY2027 (Jan-27) to be 7.7M driven mostly by B300 continued strong ramp. We lower our Rubin estimates from 2.2M to 2M as we expect Rubin deployments to be more limited by memory supply than we previously assumed. Our total Nvidia GPU units in FY2028E are revised by +7% as we expect Nvidia to trade more memory dense servers with more servers with lower memory per chip.

NVDA Jul- Q Earnings Preview

1. Earnings Setup

We model $1B upside in the Jul-Q with sales reaching $93B vs. Street's $92B on a continued strong B300 ramp. Going into Oct-Q, we expect a 13% QoQ sales uptick to $105.1B (Street $103.7B). We expect a continued strong ramp of B300 as well as the initial ramp of Vera Rubin as foreshadowed by the faster-than-expected ramp of 1.6T transceivers ramp. We model data center sales in Jul/Oct to grow sequentially +15%/+14% QoQ vs. Street +13%/+13%.

2. Key Investor Topics

a) AI Financing

Summary of off-balance-sheet financing to date. Nvidia's exposure has moved well beyond simple equity stakes into contingent guarantees and structured third-party financing that don't sit as debt on its own balance sheet. The clearest example, formally finalized August 17, is the Ohio PORTS-Pike campus: Nvidia is providing credit support on land, power, and shell buildout for an initial 4.25 IT-GW phase, with an option (not an obligation) to extend to the remaining 3.75 IT-GW, totaling 8 IT-GW under a 20-year lease. Notably, the signed deal's press release discloses no specific guarantee dollar figure suggesting Nvidia is now managing this narrative around capacity (gigawatts). Separately, Nvidia has said it may guarantee up to roughly a quarter of individual loans on a case-by-case basis under the broader financing platforms announced August 10 with Apollo, BlackRock, Blackstone, Brookfield, Goldman Sachs, and KKR — a structure explicitly designed to mobilize over $500B third-party capital rather than have Nvidia carry the debt directly. Layer on top of that roughly $70B in direct equity stakes across LLM makers and adjacent deals like the Apollo/Blackstone $35B compute financing (not Nvidia's own guarantee, but part of the same capital ecosystem Nvidia is enabling). While none of this shows up as debt on Nvidia's balance sheet the way a bond issuance would, it rather shows up as guarantees, MOUs, equity positions, and now signed but dollar-figure-undisclosed credit support, largely disclosed in footnotes and press releases rather than as liabilities.

Why is the risk smaller than it looks? Nvidia limited its firm commitment to the 4.25 IT-GW initial phase, structured the remaining 3.75 IT-GW as an option it can decline, and paired the credit support with a modest, clearly quantified $1.5B equity stake rather than an open-ended guarantee (active re-architecture to minimize direct exposure, not expand it). The August 10 platforms route the bulk of the broader capital through Apollo (~$1.05 trillion AUM), Blackstone (~$1.3T AUM), and Brookfield (~$1T AUM) institutions built specifically to underwrite long-duration infrastructure risk, with Nvidia guaranteeing only a partial slice (~25%) of any given loan. That's a fundamentally different risk profile than Nvidia backstopping the full amount itself. Scaled against the company, the numbers are also more manageable than headlines suggest: even if the PORTS-Pike credit support implies tens of billions of contingent exposure once construction costs for 4.25 IT-GW are factored in, that's set against a company generating roughly $50B of free cash flow in a single recent quarter and holding about $80B in cash and marketable securities. The guarantees are also contingent, not immediate — Nvidia doesn't have to fund anything today, only if the LLM makers own financing structure fails, which is a lower-probability event given the underlying compute demand still appears real (full backlogs, rising GPU utilization). By leveraging its industry-leading scale and balance sheet strength, Nvidia is further expanding its footprint in the AI infrastructure space. We see these efforts as a way for Nvidia to facilitate AI factory growth by easing in the short to midterm financing needs of the AI labs and neoclouds.

b) Blackwell/Rubin GPU Unit Ramp Update

We revise our GPU units' estimates to reflect Citi's latest CoWos estimates. We now model 10.6M units (+50% Y/Y vs prior 11.7M). We expect Blackwell in FY2027 (Jan-27) to be 7.7M driven mostly by B300 continued strong ramp. We lower our Rubin estimates from 2.2M to 2M as we expect Rubin deployments to be more limited by memory supply than we previously assumed. We also extend our Nvidia GPU model to FY2028E (Jan-28). We expect a 35% increase in aggregate units driven mostly by the ramp of the Rubin family, which we expect to increase 4x in FY2028E vs FY2027E. Our total Nvidia GPU units in FY2028E are revised by +7% as we expect Nvidia to trade more memory dense servers with more servers with lower memory per chip.

AI GPU sales: Despite lowering units estimates by ~1.1M, we raise our FY2027 sales by 3% to reach $290B (+82 YoY%). Our GPU sales revisions of +$9B reflect largely an increase in blended ASP to reflect the increase in memory cost which Nvidia is generally able to pass down to its customers (15-20% we estimate). Our debut FY2028E Nvidia AI sales estimates bake in a 40% YoY growth. We expect sales of AI GPUs to represent on average ~80% of total Nvidia data center sales in FY2027E- FY2028E, with the remaining being comprised primarily of networking (Ethernet and InfiniBand) and software/services offerings.

In terms of mix, we expect ~49% of Nvidia's business to come from the hyperscalers bucket as the latter remain the primary path for enterprises to have access to AI GPUs. The remaining 51% represents everything else AI Clouds, Industrial, and Enterprise.

Concurrently we also revise our Accelerator TAM model.

In terms of units... We model AI merchant GPUs to represent the larger mix of AI accelerators throughout C2025 to C2027E with ASICs to lead the group starting in 2028E. We nevertheless expect merchant units to grow at a CAGR 29% vs the prior 27% during that period driven by Nvidia demand but also AMD's continued ramp. We expect Nvidia will continue to capture the bulk of AI accelerators investment due to its technology leadership and large installed base. Coming from a smaller base, we expect ASIC units to grow at a CAGR of 55% (50% prior) as various ASIC programs come online particularly in the C2027E timeframe. Combining the two, we expect AI accelerators to grow at a 41% CAGR between C2025 and C2030E (36% prior).

In terms of compute sales... We expect the mix of AI merchant GPUs to remain high (70%+). This is despite the expectation of lower merchant unit growth vs. ASICs. The primary reason for AI merchant GPUs sales shares remaining 70%+ is the significantly higher merchant GPU ASPs (between 3x and 7x vs. ASICs). We model AI merchant GPUs sales to grow at a 28% CAGR vs. ASICs' 69% from C2025 to C2028E to reach $712B and $269B, respectively. We expect the combined TAM to grow at a 34% CAGR for a total of $980 by C2030E vs. our prior $866B forecast.

We like Buy-rated NVDA on secular AI growth opportunities.

Valuation

Our price target for NVDA of $300 is based on ~24x P/E on C27E earnings power. Our 24x P/E multiple is in-line with 3 year average.

Risks

Downside risks to the attainment of our target price include: 1) competition on gaming could drive the stock lower if Nvidia loses market share; 2) slower-than-expected adoption of new platforms can drive lower data center and gaming sales; 3) lumpiness in auto and data center markets can add volatility to the stock/multiple; and 4) cryptomining impact on gaming sales.

Broadcom Inc

(AVGO.O; US$380.0; 1; 18 Aug 26; 16:00)

Valuation

Our PT of $500, or 20X F28 EPS, is at the low end of recent trading range of 20-40X to reflect intensifying competition.

Risks

We see the following key risks to our target price:

Customer: We estimate it derives ~35-40% of sales from its largest customer, Google. Therefore, any major uptick/downtick in demand for Google's products could result in upside/downside to our estimates and rating for Broadcom.

SG&A target: Broadcom's long-term SG&A target is <3% of revenue (excluding stock-based compensation), one of the lowest among semi peers. However, if Broadcom is unable to reach its SG&A target, it could result in downside to our estimates and rating for Broadcom.

Competition: Any fluctuations in market share between Broadcom and its competitors could result in upside/downside risk to our estimates.

M&A: If Broadcom pursues further acquisitions, it could lead to margin/EPS accretion/dilution and result in upside/downside to our estimates.

If the impact on the company from any of these factors proves to be greater than we anticipate, the stock will likely have difficulty achieving our target price. However, should they be less than anticipated, the stock could trade above our target price.

Analysts' compensation is determined by Citi Research management and Citigroup's senior management and is based upon activities and services intended to benefit the investor clients of Citigroup Global Markets Inc. and its affiliates (the "Firm"). Compensation is not linked to specific transactions or recommendations. Like all Firm employees, analysts receive compensation that is impacted by overall Firm profitability which includes investment banking, sales and trading, and principal trading revenues. One factor in equity research analyst compensation is arranging corporate access events between institutional clients and the management teams of covered companies. Typically, company management is more likely to participate when the analyst has a positive view of the company.

For financial instruments recommended in the Product in which the Firm is not a market maker, the Firm is a liquidity provider in such financial instruments (and any underlying instruments) and may act as principal in connection with transactions in such instruments. The Firm is a regular issuer of traded financial instruments linked to securities that may have been recommended in the Product. The Firm regularly trades in the securities of the issuer(s) discussed in the Product. The Firm may engage in securities transactions in a manner inconsistent with the Product and, with respect to securities covered by the Product, will buy or sell from customers on a principal basis.

Unless stated otherwise neither the Research Analyst nor any member of their team has viewed the material operations of the Companies for which an investment view has been provided within the past 12 months.

Guide to Citi Research Fundamental Research Investment Ratings:

Citi Research stock recommendations include an investment rating and an optional risk rating to highlight high risk stocks.

Risk rating takes into account both price volatility and fundamental criteria. Stocks will either have no risk rating or a High risk rating assigned.

Investment Ratings: Citi Research investment ratings are Buy, Neutral and Sell. Our ratings are a function of analyst expectations of expected total return ("ETR") and risk. ETR is the sum of the forecast price appreciation (or depreciation) plus the dividend yield for a stock within the next 12 months. The target price is based on a 12 month time horizon. The Investment rating definitions are: Buy (1) ETR of 15% or more or 25% or more for High risk stocks; and Sell (3) for negative ETR. Any covered stock not assigned a Buy or a Sell is a Neutral (2). For stocks rated Neutral (2), if an analyst believes that there are insufficient valuation drivers and/or investment catalysts to derive a positive or negative investment view, they may elect with the approval of Citi Research management not to assign a target price and, thus, not derive an ETR. Citi Research may suspend its rating and target price and assign "Rating Suspended" status for regulatory and/or internal policy reasons. Citi Research may also suspend its rating and target price and assign "Under Review" status for other exceptional circumstances (e.g. lack of information critical to the analyst's thesis, trading suspension) affecting the company and/or trading in the company's securities. In both such situations, the rating and target price will show as "—" and "—" respectively in the rating history price chart. Prior to 11 April 2022 Citi Research assigned "Under Review" status to both situations and prior to 11 Nov 2020 only in exceptional circumstances. As soon as practically possible, the analyst will publish a note re-establishing a rating and investment thesis. Investment ratings are determined by the ranges described above at the time of initiation of coverage, a change in investment and/or risk rating, or a change in target price (subject to limited management discretion). At times, the expected total returns may fall outside of these ranges because of market price movements and/or other short-term volatility or trading patterns. Such interim deviations will be permitted but will become subject to review by Research Management. Your decision to buy or sell a security should be based upon your personal investment objectives and should be made only after evaluating the stock's expected performance and risk.

Catalyst Watch/Short Term Views ("STV") Ratings Disclosure:

Catalyst Watch and STV Upside/Downside calls: Citi Research may also include a Catalyst Watch or STV Upside or Downside call to indicate the analyst expects the share price to rise (fall) in absolute terms over a specified period of 30 or 90 days in reaction to one or more specific near-term catalysts or events impacting the company or the market. A Catalyst Watch will be published when Analyst confidence is high that an impact to share price will occur; it will be a STV when confidence level is moderate. A Catalyst Watch or STV Upside/Downside call will automatically expire at the end of the specified 30/90 day period. The Catalyst Watch will also be automatically removed if share price performance (calculated at market close) exceeds 15% against the direction of the call (unless over-ridden by the analyst). The analyst may also remove a Catalyst Watch or STV call prior to the end of the specified period in a published research note. A Catalyst Watch/STV Upside or Downside call may be different from and does not affect a stock's fundamental equity rating, which reflects a longer-term total absolute return expectation. For purposes of FINRA ratings-distribution-disclosure rules, a Catalyst Watch/STV Upside call corresponds to a buy recommendation and a Catalyst Watch/STV Downside call corresponds to a sell recommendation. Any stock not assigned to a Catalyst Watch Upside, Catalyst Watch Downside, STV Upside, or STV Downside call is considered Catalyst Watch/STV No View. For purposes of FINRA ratings distribution-disclosure rules, we correspond Catalyst Watch/STV No View to Hold in our ratings distribution table for our Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside rating system. However, we reiterate that we do not consider No View to be a recommendation. For all Catalyst Watch/STV Upside/Downside calls, risk exists that the catalyst(s) and associated share-price movement will not materialize as expected.
