Battery Weekly 17 August

America

- GM and LGES ramp up cell production in Ohio again.- electrive.com General Motors (GM) and LG Energy Solution (LGES) will restart battery cell production at their Ultium Cells plant in Ohio after a seven-month shutdown caused by weaker EV demand, bringing approximately 1,400 workers back to the facility. At the same time, the partners are diversifying their North American battery strategy by investing US$70 million to convert their Tennessee plant for the production of LFP batteries for energy storage systems (ESS) alongside EV batteries. The move highlights a broader industry shift toward balancing EV battery production with growing demand for stationary energy storage, as LGES targets more than 60 GWh of global ESS manufacturing capacity by 2026, with over 80% located in North America.
- US government offers Sila up to \$1.4 billion in funding.- electrive.com U.S. battery materials company Sila Nanotechnologies has received a conditional loan commitment of up to US$1.4 billion from the U.S. Department of Defense's Office of Strategic Capital to expand domestic battery manufacturing. The funding would support the scaling of Sila's Titan Silicon anode material production facility in Moses Lake, Washington, where capacity could eventually grow from 2 GWh to as much as 250 GWh. Sila also plans to enter battery cell manufacturing for the first time, targeting high-performance applications such as drones, defense systems, energy storage, and data centers. The initiative reflects growing U.S. efforts to strengthen domestic battery supply chains and reduce reliance on Chinese battery materials.
- GM to Sell Stake in Indiana Battery Venture to Samsung SDI.-BNEF General Motors (GM) is selling its 49.99% stake in a planned $3.5 billion EV battery plant in Indiana to Samsung SDI, reflecting GM's continued pullback in EV investment amid weaker-than-expected US demand. Samsung SDI will fully own the facility, making it its first standalone North American manufacturing hub, and plans to produce both EV and energy-storage batteries. Despite the sale, GM and Samsung SDI will continue collaborating on next-generation prismatic EV batteries with higher energy density and faster charging. The move follows GM's $11 billion in EV-related writedowns and other reductions in battery capacity as the company adjusts its strategy toward current consumer demand while maintaining longer-term EV ambitions.
- LG Chem Wins Cathode Supply Deal for Hyundai Motor-LG Energy Solution U.S. Battery Venture.- thelec.net LG Chem has been selected to supply nickel-cobalt-manganese (NCM) cathode materials to HL-GA Battery Company, the U.S. battery manufacturing joint venture between Hyundai Motor Group and LG Energy Solution. The cathode materials, including both high-nickel and mid-nickel products, are expected to be used in batteries for 2029-model electric vehicles produced at Hyundai's Georgia EV facilities. The win strengthens LG Chem's transition toward advanced battery materials and supports automakers' efforts to build non-China battery supply chains in line with U.S. localization and supply chain diversification requirements.
- Samsung SDI, GM partner on next-gen prismatic EV batteries.- Pulse.mk Samsung SDI and General Motors (GM) have signed a joint development agreement to develop next-generation prismatic EV batteries featuring higher energy density and faster charging capabilities for future GM electric vehicles. As part of a broader restructuring of their North American battery partnership, Samsung SDI will acquire GM's 49.99% stake in Synergy Cells, gaining full ownership of the Indiana-based battery plant currently under development. The US$3.5 billion facility, designed for 27 GWh of annual production capacity, will manufacture advanced EV batteries and may also include dedicated production lines for the growing energy storage system (ESS) market, strengthening Samsung SDI's battery manufacturing presence in North America.
- Xingchen New Energy and RIFO Partner to Develop Home Energy and Distributed AI Infrastructure in North America.-solarbe.com Zhejiang Xingchen New Energy Technology Co., Ltd. (Xingchen New Energy) and Canada's RIFO Holding Group Inc. have signed a strategic partnership to jointly develop distributed home energy systems, virtual power plants (VPPs), and distributed AI computing infrastructure in North America. Leveraging RIFO's network of more than 300,000 residential customers, digital platform (LIVOS) and home service network, together with Xingchen New Energy's expertise in vanadium flow batteries, energy storage systems, energy management, and virtual power plant operations, the companies aim to build a distributed AI-enabled home energy platform. The collaboration will focus on energy storage deployment, smart energy management, distributed computing power support, and VPP operations, supporting the integration of clean energy and AI infrastructure across the North American residential market.

Asia

- Panasonic Turns Into AI Infrastructure Supplier as Parts Drive China, NE Asia Revenue Growth.- yicaglobal.com Panasonic Holdings is increasingly transforming into an AI infrastructure and components supplier, with AI-related products becoming its largest revenue source in China and Northeast Asia. In the fiscal year ended March 2026, AI-related businesses accounted for 28% of regional sales, surpassing home appliances at 27%. The company reported record first-quarter profits driven by strong demand for AI server components, printed circuit board (PCB) materials, and electronic components, with some products facing supply shortages due to rapid AI data center expansion. Panasonic is also expanding AI-focused manufacturing and software operations in China, positioning AI as a key investment priority over the next three years while supporting applications in data centers, smart devices, energy systems, and robotics.
- Xing Mobility introduces immersion-cooled batteries for ships.- electrive.com Taiwanese battery technology company Xing Mobility has introduced two new immersion-cooled battery systems for maritime applications: the Immersio XM25 and Immersio CTP. Both systems use the company's proprietary immersion-cooling technology, which fully surrounds battery cells with a non-conductive cooling fluid to improve thermal management and safety. The modular XM25 is designed for a wide range of vessel types, while the cell-to-pack (CTP) Immersio CTP offers significantly higher energy density and more compact installation. Xing Mobility says the systems are designed to enhance fire safety, optimize onboard space, and support the growing adoption of electric and low-emission marine transport.
- CATL targets 2027 start for solid-state battery pilot production.- electrive.com China's battery giants CATL and BYD are both targeting 2027 for the start of small-scale solid-state battery production, intensifying competition to commercialize next-generation battery technology. Solid-state batteries replace liquid electrolytes with solid materials, offering the potential for higher energy density, faster charging, longer lifespan, and improved safety compared with conventional lithium-ion batteries. While both companies remain on track for pilot production next year, mass-market deployment is still expected after 2030 due to ongoing technical and manufacturing challenges. The developments highlight China's continued leadership in advanced battery innovation and the global race to bring solid-state batteries to commercial scale.
- CATL tests 350 Wh/kg battery for eVTOLs.- electrive.com CATL has successfully validated a new 350 Wh/kg aviation battery system for electric aircraft after passing a demanding safety test in which two adjacent cells were simultaneously triggered into thermal runaway without the failure spreading to neighboring cells. Developed for eVTOL and electric aviation applications, the battery offers significantly higher energy density than typical EV batteries while meeting stringent aviation safety requirements. The system is already considered ready for series production, with Chinese eVTOL developer AutoFlight named as the first customer, marking an important step toward the commercialization of electric aircraft and advanced air mobility solutions.
- BYD files six more solid-state battery patents.- electrive.com BYD has filed six new solid-state battery patents focused on improving the interface between electrodes and solid electrolytes, a key challenge for next-generation batteries. The patents cover advanced cathode designs, dual-electrolyte architectures, thermal stability improvements, and manufacturing techniques aimed at enhancing energy density, cycle life, safety, and charging performance. The developments support reports that BYD plans to begin small-scale solid-state battery production in 2027, with initial cells expected to be tested in prototype vehicles before broader commercialization later in the decade. The filings underscore BYD's continued investment in both solid-state and sodium-ion battery technologies as part of its long-term battery innovation strategy.
- Hyundai Motor Group Applies Water-Cooled Battery System to Hybrid Vehicles.- thelec.net Hyundai Motor Group has unveiled a new 2.5-liter turbo hybrid system featuring its first water-cooled hybrid battery, which improves battery temperature control, increases discharge power, and expands EV-mode operation. Debuting in the Genesis GV80 Hybrid next month, the system delivers 352 PS of maximum output and 54.0 kgf-m of torque, representing improvements of 16% and 26%, respectively, over the existing 2.5L turbo model. Hyundai also reports more than 25% better fuel economy, faster acceleration, and enhanced electrification features such as Stay Mode, predictive battery management, and smart regenerative braking, bringing hybrid driving performance closer to that of a battery-electric vehicle.
- LG Energy Solution Signs More Than 5 Trillion Won in LFP Cathode Supply Deals With China's Lopal Tech.- thelec.net LG Energy Solution (LGES) has signed a three-year agreement to purchase up to RMB 27 billion (approximately KRW 5.7 trillion) of LFP cathode materials from China's Lopal Tech between 2026 and 2028, strengthening its supply chain for expanding energy storage system (ESS) battery production. Under the broader partnership, LGES will also supply up to RMB 18 billion worth of lithium carbonate and other raw materials to Lopal.

The agreement supports LGES's growing ESS business, particularly in North America, where the company plans to expand ESS battery production capacity to more than 60 GWh, supported by a cumulative order backlog of around 140 GWh.

- Korea eases rules to unlock \$3 billion in advanced industry investment.- koreajoongangdaily South Korea has announced a new package of regulatory reforms aimed at accelerating investment in strategic industries including semiconductors, batteries, biotechnology, AI, and robotics. The government expects the measures to unlock approximately KRW 4.2 trillion (US$3.0 billion) in new investment by streamlining permitting processes, expanding industrial site access, and improving support for advanced manufacturing projects. For the battery sector, battery recycling and resource recovery businesses will be allowed to operate in major industrial complexes such as Gumi and Pohang, supporting an estimated KRW 100 billion in additional investment. The initiative is part of South Korea's broader strategy to strengthen competitiveness in next-generation industries and attract more domestic manufacturing investment.
- BYD launches 2027 Seal 06 with 630 km range, second-gen Blade Battery.- cnevpost BYD has launched the 2027 Seal 06, one of its key mass-market EV and PHEV models, with prices starting at RMB 99,900 (US$14,700). The new model introduces LiDAR-equipped God's Eye B advanced driver assistance, making it one of the most affordable vehicles in China to offer urban and highway navigation-assisted driving. The EV version features BYD's second-generation Blade Battery and flash-charging technology, increasing driving range to up to 630 km (CLTC) and enabling near-full charging in approximately 9 minutes. The launch highlights BYD's strategy of bringing premium battery and autonomous driving technologies into the high-volume affordable EV segment.
- Dongfeng Nissan files NX7 as plug-in hybrid with 40.9-kWh CATL battery.- cnevpost Dongfeng Nissan has filed the new NX7 plug-in hybrid SUV with Chinese regulators, paving the way for its market launch as the fourth model in the company's N-series electrified lineup. The five-seat SUV features a 40.9 kWh CATL LFP battery, providing up to 225 km of pure-electric range, and combines a 1.5L engine with a 170 kW electric motor. The NX7 also offers optional roof-mounted LiDAR and urban Navigation on Autopilot (NOA) capabilities, highlighting Nissan's push to bring advanced driver-assistance features to the mainstream market. Positioned below the larger NX8 SUV, the NX7 is expected to strengthen Dongfeng Nissan's competitiveness in China's fast-growing electrified vehicle segment.
- Nio tops 120 million battery swaps as 4,000th swap station goes live.- cnevpost Nio has exceeded 120 million cumulative battery swap services in China, reaching the milestone just six months after surpassing 100 million swaps, highlighting accelerating adoption of its battery-swapping ecosystem. The company also launched its 4,000th battery swap station, the first fifth-generation station capable of serving all three Nio brands: Nio, Onvo, and Firefly. Nio now operates more than 4,000 swap stations, including 1,049 highway locations, and reports that users have consumed 6.35 billion kWh through battery swaps, while saving an estimated 31.2 billion yuan (US$4.6 billion) compared with gasoline vehicles.
- Arcfox files battery-swap version of Beta T1, tapping CATL's swap system.- cnevpost Arcfox, BAIC Group's EV brand, has filed a battery-swap version of its Beta T1 electric sedan, further expanding its collaboration with CATL's Choco-SEB battery-swapping ecosystem. The compact EV features a CATL LFP battery, a 95 kW motor, and supports a vehicle-battery separation model, allowing customers to purchase the vehicle and lease the battery to lower upfront costs. The Beta T1 joins Arcfox's growing lineup of battery-swappable vehicles as CATL continues to expand its swap network, which has already reached 2,000 stations across 180 Chinese cities.
- Pylontech Leads Development of China's First Sodium-Ion Starter Battery Standards.- solare.com Pylon Technologies Co., Ltd. (Pylontech) and its subsidiary Jiangsu Zhongxing Pylon Battery Co., Ltd. have led the development of China's first industry standards for sodium-ion starter batteries, covering safety requirements, performance specifications, and testing methods. The new standards provide a technical framework for sodium-ion batteries used in automobiles, motorcycles, generators, and other high-power starting applications, helping accelerate commercialization and industry standardization. Pylontech highlighted the technology's advantages, including more than 15,000 charge cycles at 45°C, 90%+ capacity retention at -20°C, improved safety performance, and lower vehicle operating costs. The company stated that it ranked first in China's sodium-ion start-stop battery shipments in 2025, reinforcing its position in the emerging sodium-ion battery market.
- CATL and Longzhou Group Partner to Expand Battery Swapping and EV Services in China.- solare.com Contemporary Amperex Technology Co., Limited (CATL) and Longzhou Group Co., Ltd. (龙洲集团, Longzhou Group) have signed a strategic cooperation agreement to accelerate the electrification and decarbonization of regional transportation in China. The partnership will focus on three areas: battery after-sales services, city-level battery swap network development, and battery swapping solutions for buses and passenger transport vehicles. Leveraging Longzhou Group's network of 70 charging stations and approximately 240 charging points in the Longyan region, the companies plan to build an integrated charging and battery-swapping ecosystem. CATL will also provide battery inspection, maintenance, and replacement services while supporting the electrification of rural passenger transport fleets in Longyan and Nanping, helping expand EV adoption beyond urban areas.
- Xiaomi Launches "Longjia Battery" and Takes Greater Control of EV Battery Development.- solare.com Xiaomi EV has unveiled its new Longjia Battery (Dragon Armor Battery), a battery system developed under Xiaomi's own product definition, battery pack design, cell co-development, and end-to-end quality control framework. The launch marks Xiaomi's transition from simply sourcing batteries to actively defining battery specifications and performance standards for its vehicles. Xiaomi says the battery exceeds national safety requirements, including a 500J underbody impact test (more than three times the Chinese standard) and stringent thermal runaway testing under high-temperature, high-state-of-charge conditions. The battery will be supplied through manufacturing partners including Sunwoda and CALB, reflecting a broader industry trend where automakers are taking greater ownership of battery development, safety standards, and system integration while relying on specialized suppliers for production.

- UNIDO and CATL Sign Joint Declaration to Advance Global Green Industrial Development.- solare.com The United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) and Contemporary Amperex Technology Co., Limited (CATL) have signed a Joint Declaration to strengthen cooperation in circular economy development, advanced battery technologies, and global industrial decarbonization. The partnership will focus on promoting standards-based industrial growth, improving policy and technology cooperation, and supporting fair and sustainable international market access. The two organizations also plan to jointly establish a Global Circular Energy and Low-Carbon Center to foster green manufacturing capabilities, accelerate low-carbon industrial ecosystems, and support the global transition to sustainable energy and industry through innovation and battery technology deployment.
- ContourGlobal announces 3 GWh of CATL BESS for global projects.- ess-news.com Global power producer ContourGlobal has signed a 3 GWh battery energy storage system (BESS) supply agreement with CATL to support three major storage projects in Scotland, Greece, and Chile. The deal includes 526 CATL LFP battery containers, each with 5.64 MWh of capacity and configured for four-hour duration storage, along with CATL's liquid-cooled battery system technology. The batteries will be deployed at the 500 MW/2,000 MWh Wallace project in Scotland, the 100 MW/400 MWh Taxiarches project in Greece, and the 90 MW/360 MWh Los Maitenes project in Chile. The agreement strengthens ContourGlobal's expanding global energy storage portfolio and highlights growing demand for utility-scale battery storage to support the clean energy transition.

Europe

- ZNL Energy and HPB Partner on Solid-State Battery Production.- battery-tech.net ZNL Energy AS and Germany's High Performance Battery Technology (HPB) have signed a letter of intent to make ZNL the preferred supplier of ZNL-NPx advanced separators for HPB's solid-state battery production in Europe. Deliveries are expected to begin in 2028, subject to qualification and a final supply agreement. The companies report that joint testing has demonstrated more than 4,500 charge-discharge cycles while improving energy density and manufacturability. The partnership supports the development of a European solid-state battery supply chain and aligns with plans to achieve multi-GWh production capacity for next-generation batteries.
- SoftBank-Backed German Energy Startup Enpal Seeks New Funding.- BNEF German residential energy company Enpal is exploring a new funding round that could value the company at €2.5-3 billion, while further delaying its planned IPO. Enpal, which provides solar panels, home batteries, heat pumps, and EV charging systems, reported more than €600 million in revenue in the first half of 2026 and expects full-year revenue to reach €1.3 billion, up 18% year-on-year. Despite facing reduced government subsidies and increased competition, the company continues to expand its residential energy platform and recently secured up to €65 million in additional funding to support future growth.

RATINGS DEFINITIONS, BENCHMARKS AND DISTRIBUTIONEQUITY RATINGS DEFINITIONS*Bernstein brand

The Bernstein brand rates stocks based on forecasts of relative performance for the next 12 months versus the S&P 500 for stocks listed on the U.S. and Canadian exchanges, versus the Bloomberg Europe Developed Markets Large and Mid Cap Price Return Index EUR (EDME) for stocks listed on the European exchanges and emerging markets exchanges outside of the Asia Pacific region, versus the Bloomberg Japan Large and Mid Cap Price Return Index USD (JPL) for stocks listed on the Japanese exchanges, and versus the Bloomberg Asia ex-Japan Large and Mid Cap Price Return Index (ASIA) for stocks listed on the Asian (ex-Japan) exchanges -unless otherwise specified.

The Bernstein brand has three categories of ratings:

- Outperform: Stock will outpace the market index by more than 15 pp
- Market-Perform: Stock will perform in line with the market index to within +/- 15 pp
- Underperform: Stock will trail the performance of the market index by more than 15 pp

Coverage Suspended: Coverage of a company under the Bernstein research brand has been suspended. Ratings and price targets are suspended temporarily, are no longer current, and should therefore not be relied upon.

Not Rated: A rating assigned when the stock cannot be accurately valued, or the performance of the company accurately predicted, at the present time. The covering analyst may continue to publish research reports on the company to update investors on events and developments.

Not Covered (NC) denotes companies that are not under coverage.

Bernstein brand stock ratings are based on a 12-month time horizon.

Autonomous brand – common stocks

The Autonomous brand rates common stocks as indicated below. As our benchmarks we use the Bloomberg Europe 600 Financials Price Return Index (E600BK) and Bloomberg Europe Dev Mkt Financials Large and Mid Cap Price Ret Index EUR (EDMFI) index for developed European banks and Payments, the Bloomberg Europe 600 Insurance Price Return Index (E600IN) for European insurers, the S&P 500 and S&P Financials for US banks and Payments coverage, S5LIFE for US Insurance, the S&P Insurance Select Industry (SPSIINS) for US Non-Life Insurers coverage, the Bloomberg Emerging Markets Financials Large, Mid and Small Cap Price Return Index (EMLSF) for emerging market banks and insurers and Payments, and the Bloomberg Japan Financials Large & Mid Cap Price Return Index (JPFILM) for Japanese Financials. Ratings are stated relative to the sector (not the market).

The Autonomous brand has three categories of common stock ratings:

- Outperform (OP): Stock will outpace the relevant index by more than 10 pp
- Neutral (N): Stock will perform in line with the market index to within +/-10 pp
- Underperform (UP): Stock will trail the performance of the relevant index by more than 10 pp

Coverage Suspended: Coverage of a company under the Autonomous research brand has been suspended. Ratings and price targets are suspended temporarily, are no longer current, and should therefore not be relied upon.

Not Rated: A rating assigned when the stock cannot be accurately valued, or the performance of the company accurately predicted, at the present time. The covering analyst may continue to publish research reports on the company to update investors on events and developments.

Those denoted as 'Feature' (e.g., Feature Outperform FOP, Feature Under Outperform FUP) are our core ideas.

Not Covered (NC) denotes companies that are not under coverage.

Autonomous brand common stock ratings are based on a 12-month time horizon.

Autonomous brand – preferred stocks

The Autonomous brand has three categories of preferred stock ratings:

- Outperform (OP): The total return of the preferred instrument is expected to outperform preferred securities of other issuers operating in similar sectors or rating categories over the next six months.
- Neutral (N): The total return of the preferred instrument is expected to perform in line with preferred securities of other issuers operating in similar sectors or rating categories over the next six months.
- Underperform (UP): The total return of the preferred instrument is expected to underperform preferred securities of other issuers operating in similar sectors or rating categories over the next six months.

Autonomous preferred stock ratings are based on a 6-month time horizon.
